BULLETIN
Cleveland, O.—(AP)—The explosion that ripped through Cleveland clinic and generated gas fumes that killed 124 persons, was caused by spontaneous combustion that ignited celluloid x-ray plates in a sub-basement store room.

This was the official report of Deputy Fire Warden Max Groes and P. T. Ferrie to their superior, Chief Warden Thomas Connell, this afternoon. They said the spontaneous combustion was induced by overheating of the store room from a leaking steam pipe.

Cleveland, O.—(AP)—The fire door leading from the x-ray room in this Cleveland clinic where the first explosion occurred yesterday had been left open, state fire wardens investigating the tragedy announced today.

The warden's statement read: "The fire room leading to the room where the celluloid x-ray plates were stored and where the first explosion occurred, had been left open. If this door had been closed the disaster might have been averted."

The brownish stain, noticed on the faces of the bodies in the morgues, smeared the outside of the clinic building today.

It was silver bromine and silver iodine acids in the coatings of the films which rapidly expanded into clouds of gas and choked the occupants of the building. The gas found its way between the walls, into the air shafts, and between the ceiling and roof, and the top floor was general and devastating.

Only one thing, perhaps, saved the building from collapse firemen said—the skylight. It gave way and permitted the deadly fumes to mount skyward.

Six investigations of the explosion and fire at the Cleveland Clinic yesterday were under way today.

All investigations centered on the storage place of the x-ray films in the basement storage room.

Officials were attempting to ascertain whether all precautions were taken by the hospital authorities.

State officials were told by the governor to delve completely into the blast. Chief P. J. Devine, Medical Director W. E. Obetz, and Safety Director H. G. Epret, of the state division of safety and hygiene, were working with Deputy State Fire Marshals Joseph Andrews and Max Gross in an effort to solve the mystery.

City Fire Warden Patrick Ferrie declared he was centering his inquiry on the condition of the storage room at the time of the blast. Ferrie said he is trying to determine whether the room fire door was left through negligence or was blown open. It was the opening of this door, said Ferrie, that permitted the gases to shoot up through the building.

LACK EXACT KNOWLEDGE
Drs. George W. Crile and William E. Lower, directors of the clinic, said they had "no exact knowledge of how the disaster occurred." Dr. Lower, who said that probably the victims were "suffocated by nitrous peroxide gas," defended the clinic and said that every precaution which

Zeppelin Is Reported Returning Home

MOTORS BREAK SAYS MESSAGE FROM AIRSHIP

Broadcasting Company Receives Bulletin from Aboard Giant Blimp

New York—(AP)—The Columbia Broadcasting company today received the following bulletin from its correspondent on the Graf Zeppelin: "Two broken motors. Heading back Germany. Can not go fast."

The Radio Marine corporation said that it had received the same message and was attempting to confirm it.

The Graf Zeppelin has five engines and can fly without any difficulty with three, although the speed is reduced with every engine that goes out of commission.

BULLETIN
London—(AP)—Sighting of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin in the Mediterranean near the Balearic Islands, was reported late today by Captain Gilchrist of the steamship Modasa. Captain Gilchrist's message, read "sighted airship painted silver 1640 Greenwich meridian time 39.20 north, 1.04 east, steering about southwest. Weather fine."

This would place the Graf Zeppelin near the Balearic Islands about fifty miles southeast of Valencia, Spain, at 11:40 A. M., standard time. She had last been reported passing over Barcelona at 8:35 A. M., eastern standard time. In the three intervening hours she had apparently covered about 180 miles.

Aboard the ship were 40 of the crew, 13 passengers and a female gorilla, "Susi." The only woman passenger was Mrs. Mary Pierce, wife of a New York utilities broker, who made the trip despite urgent pleadings of her husband and her mother. Among the men was Captain Sir George Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer.

The ship was trundled from its hangar at 5:45 a. m., and at the pilot's command was released for its long voyage at 5:57 a. m. (19:57 p. m., Appleton time, Wednesday). It rose slowly in an intermittent drizzle, while 200 or more spectators cheered. It circled the field once and disappeared in ten minutes in the direction of the Lake Constance and Basel, Switzerland.

After flying over Walusath and Saackingen, the dirigible arrived over Basel at 7:30 a. m., a fog oblig-

HAGEN ELIMINATED IN BRITISH GOLF MEET

Moortown, Eng.—(AP)—Walter Hagen and three of his stalwart compatriots were defeated in the first two rounds of the Yorkshire Evening News thousand guineas professional golf tournament, leaving the task of upholding American golfing prestige in the capable hands of Leo Diegel and Joe Turnesa. Only these two invaders survived the mighty blows dealt by British veterans their own comrades, too.

Hagen was defeated in the first round by his old nemesis, George Duncan, in a terrific battle continuing to the final hole where Duncan dropped a 45 foot putt for a winning three.

Leo Diegel eliminated Al Watrous, one up in the first round and playing inspired golf in the second to win from Ed Dudley, five and four. His putting was sensational. He set a new figure for the first nine holes when he went out in 20.

Horton Smith lost to Turnesa 23 and 2.
Jose Jurado, the Argentine pro, lost in the first round so the other Americans were left to contest with six British pros in the third round. The other survivors are George Duncan, Archie Compston, Herbert Jolly, Charles Whitcombe, J. J. Taylor and W. H. Davies.

Fisher Sent To Prison For 3 Years

Former Menasha Bank
President Pleads Guilty to Embezzlement

Milwaukee—(AP)—Harry Fisher, former president of the First National bank of Menasha, was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth prison today by federal judge F. A. Geiger.

The 58-year-old man who rose from office boy to bank president, pleaded guilty to five counts of embezzlement, the amount aggregating $25,903. He was sentenced to three years on each of the five counts, the sentences to run concurrently.

Fisher, indicted by the recent federal grand jury for taking the bank's funds over a period of 23 years, voluntarily appeared in Judge Geiger's court.

A warrant for the arrest of Fisher was issued immediately after the embezzlement was returned several weeks ago, but while federal marshals have been seeking him ever since, they reported that he was not to be found. It is said that Fisher left Menasha some six months ago.

According to Levi Bancroft, federal district attorney, who presented the Fisher case to the grand jury, the defalcations began about 1904 and were discovered about two years ago when Fisher resigned his post as president of the bank. The losses are said to have totaled about $200,000, according to government bank examiners, but the indictment carries only $25,000 as the remainder is outlawed by the statute of limitations.

Mr. Bancroft announced that the board of directors of the bank made good the entire shortage and desired that no criminal prosecution ensue.

CREW ABANDONS SHIP GROUNDED IN BLIZZARD

Calumet, Mich.—(AP)—The freighter Ralph Budd, 6,999 ton vessel which was driven ashore six miles west of Eagle harbor in a blizzard last night, was abandoned by her crew of 31 at noon today and it slowly pounded to pieces on the rock.

The plight of the ship was discovered by a party of automobile tourists who sighted her hard aground. They informed the coast guard station at Eagle harbor. Apparently the ship carried no radio equipment.

A coast guard crew immediately went to the scene. It had little difficulty removing the crew.

Kohler Signs Bill For One-Man Budget Chief

Single Vote Rules That Wisconsin Fishermen Won't Be Taxed

Madison—(AP)—Gov. Walter J. Kohler signed the budget bill late Wednesday, he announced this morning. The measure creates the post of budget director, responsible to the executive, and who will make a continuous study of state finances.

The pen with which the bill was signed was presented to Sen. Walter S. Goodland, Racine, who presented the bill, which followed suggestions of the governor in his message to the legislature.

The governor made no announcement as to whom he would name to the post. James B. Borden, former secretary of the board of public affairs, which is supplanted by the new director, now is attached to the governor's office as a financial and legislative adviser. Carmen G. Blugh is the present secretary of the board of public affairs.

"Presentation of a carefully prepared budget, balanced as to anticipated income and recommended expenditures, with the responsibility definitely fixed will be great help to the legislature and will probably result in shortening the sessions," said the governor in announcing his approval.

"The duty of the budget director to pass upon contemplated expenditures will encourage greater care and thrift on the part of all departments and a definite effort will be made to show a good record by keeping as far within appropriations as possible, consistent with efficient carrying-on of the various state activities."

"There will be full publicity of the state's finances, creating a salutary public opinion in favor of definite economy and efficiency. From the standpoint of intelligent planning and sound management, this measure will prove of incalculable benefit to the people."

Fish License Bill Beaten In Assembly

Single Vote Rules That Wisconsin Fishermen Won't Be Taxed

Madison—(AP)—Dollor fishing licenses for residents of Wisconsin were defeated by a margin of one vote in the assembly today. In that body there were 37 votes against concurrence with the senate on Senator Blanchard's bill, to 36 votes for concurrence.

Refusal of the lower house to approve the dollar license came after two ballots that indicated it would occur. By a margin of 13 votes, the assembly refused to concur, and by 15 votes it refused to lay the bill on the table. Argument of Assemblyman Alvin Reis, Progressive floor leader, that "the bill is not a conservation measure, but purely a taxation scheme," apparently changed the sentiment of the assembly.

Those who voted for the bill—Ashley, Barber, Barnard, Beck, Beggs, Bingham, Conway, Dilling, Ebbe Edwards, Engel, Gilbertson, Grandine, Groshmidt, Hilker, Huber, Hunter, Husband, Ingalls, Kamper, Kleker, La Bar, Lacy, Laffey, Lamoureux, Larson, Martin, Millar, Moul, O'Connor, Pahl, Sanger, E. ## RED AND BLUE ARMIES PUT OHIO UNDER SIEGE

Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio—(AP)—Ohio is in a state of siege today. With the stroke of last midnight the blue nation, whose army of airmen and ground troops is quartered here, declared "war" on the red nation and its capital Columbus.

Hostilities got under way beneath the cover of early morning darkness when six bombers of the blue army took off from this field bent upon a mission of destruction preceded by a squad of fast pursuit aircraft.

But since unpress instead of ammunition are being used to stifle the war, which will be in progress for the next ten days, no estimate of the casualties could be obtained. And the victor in the first encounter of the bloodless conflict is unknown at this time.

WATER MAINS DYNAMITED IN RAYON STRIKE

200 Tennessee Guardsmen Arrest 100 Picketeers
After Blast

Elizabethton, Tenn.—(AP)—National guardsmen used tear gas bombs to effect the arrest of approximately 100 men and women textile mill strikers who had collected on a highway over which workers were being taken to the American Gloe-Stoff and Bamberg Rayon plants today.

The demonstrations and arrest occurred three hours after the water main serving this city and the mills had been dynamited. The bombs were used after stones were alleged to have been thrown as busses and automobiles in which employees of the mills were riding. These arrested were herded into the court house here.

One of the busses dashed through a group of strikers trying to block the road, injuring four of them. One, Evelyn Heaton, was seriously hurt. The driver, Joe Calhoun, was taken to Jonesboro, 15 miles away, by guardsmen.

The picketeers were marched to the Carter-co courthouse where they were held under guard.

Joe Calhoun, driving a bus load of workers to the rayon plants, ran his machine into a gathering of strikers who attempted to block the road, injuring four of them. Calhoun was spirited to Jonesboro, 15 miles away, for safekeeping.

WARNED SHERIFF

Sheriff Moreland, who last night requested Adjutant General W. C. Boyd to declare martial law over the town, said he had been warned by a limited force of non-union workers, would not be hindered.

The city of Elizabethton was without drinking water for a time. Trucks were sent to Johnson City, 11 miles away for one thousand gallons of water for drinking purposes.

Alexander, an anti-strike leader is president of a bank here. Last week a barn of his property was dynamited.

Walter Gungan, vice president of the water company, said the line would be repaired by tonight and that the greatest danger today was the possibility of fire. In this event he said the town would be helpless.

Adjutant General Boyd, who directed the arrest of picketeers, said they would not be released, until "properly dealt with by law."

In Tennessee, he said, the law permits picketing but not intimidation and blocking of highways. He asserted he would take personal responsibility for holding the picketeers.

GREEN VETOES BILL TO RETURN DEATH PENALTY

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—A bill proposing to reestablish capital punishment in Michigan was vetoed by Gov. Fred W. Green today. The governor in his veto message said the measure justified a popular referendum.

The governor termed the measure one of the most extreme of its kind. He censured its failure to give courts discretion and its inclusion of women and minors.

Although members of the legislature have departed for their homes, formal adjournment will not take place until May 29. Proponents of capital punishment could ask members to return in an attempt to override the veto, but the vote on original passage did not indicate the necessary two-thirds majority in both houses could be obtained.

ALMA RUBENS, SCREEN ACTRESS, GOES AMUCK

Los Angeles—(AP)—Alma Rubens, film actress, was removed to the city psychopathic ward today by deputy sheriffs after they had been called to her home by her mother, Mrs. Theresa Rubens, who said her daughter had attacked her nurse and threatened to commit suicide.

The officers were kept at bay at the Rubens home by the actress for three hours, they said.

Miss Rubens, armed with a butcher knife, appeared on the porch and threatened to stab the officers if they approached.

The deputies hid themselves in bushes about the home and after a long wait the actress appeared on the porch again and was overpowered.

LITTLE HOPE FOR OTHERS IN HOSPITAL

Physicians Fear Poison Gas Will Take Lives of

BLAST ROCKS BUILDING

Gas Escaping from X-ray Room Penetrates to Patients' Rooms

Madison—(AP)—The State Industrial commission building safety division will immediately inspect Wisconsin hospitals and other institutions where chemicals and x-ray films are stored or used to find if there is need for more stringent regulation of these places.

Cleveland, Ohio—(AP)—More victims of the Cleveland Clinic disaster died shortly before 2 o'clock bringing the total death toll to 124. In addition there were about 29 injured in hospitals here, most of them in critical condition from poison gas.

Investigators this afternoon were inclined to blame an overheated steam pipe for the explosion of the x-ray films which was the start of the disaster.

W. D. Guion, building commissioner, ordered the x-ray room in the basement of the clinic closed, sealed, and guarded by police pending further investigation.

Three victims were hovering near death in Mt. Sinai hospital at noon today, with oxygen being administered in desperate attempts to save them.

The gas had attacked the blood, they said, slowly destroying red corpuscles and bringing death nearer as it worked.

The victims were compared to the "walking gas cases" of the World War, said soldiers who withstood the inroads of the poison for a few days and then fell over dead.

DOCTORS LOSE LIVES

Some of the survivors were patients, nurses and doctors at the clinic. Others were firemen and policemen who risked their lives in the aerial, yellow smoke to remove the bodies. Some were volunteers who had worked feverishly with them.

Physicians said most of them had but little chance for their lives. The impossibility of nourishing the blood against the attacks of the gas points to death in the more serious cases, the physicians declared.

Administration of oxygen and blood transfusion already have failed in some instances.

Such a case was that of Dr. John Phillips, one of the founders of the clinic. Two tanks of oxygen were used but he collapsed after walking some distance to his home from the clinic. This recourse having failed, Dr. George W. Crile, co-founder and head of the clinic, performed a blood transfusion upon his colleague.

In spite of everything that could be done for him he died.

SIX SIMILAR CASES

Six similar cases were recorded at Mount Sinai hospital last night, three of them victims who had left the charred clinic with no apparent effects of the noxious fumes. One at the clinic who jumped from a window and went home, believing she was untouched.

Later she felt ill and went to Mt. Sinai. She laughed and talked while waiting for treatment and then collapsed. A blood transfusion was ordered with the hope that what seemed the inevitable might be averted.

The other two patients were a fireman and a woman who entered the clinic just as the first blast occurred. She got a whiff of the gas, returned to her home thankful to have escaped death and then felt the ominous effects of the fatal fumes. All three underwent blood transfusions.

Physicians said that although all of the victims may not die, many seemed certain to succumb eventually. The fatal results of inhaling the gas might be delayed for hours, perhaps longer, they said, but slowly the red blood corpuscles might combine with carbon monoxide instead of oxygen and the end be inescapable.

The gas was identified by Dr. William E. Lower, one of the chiefs of the clinic as Nitrous Peroxide, released by burning X-ray film. The celluloid preparation was fired in an

Vogt Flays Dog Club For Stand Against Ordinance

GROUP LIES, HE CHARGES AT MEETING

Alderman Tells Common Council Organization Has Made Threats

The One Absolutely Unselfish Friend club, organized a few weeks ago to work for repeal of the dog ordinance in Appleton, was the object of scathing denunciation by Alderman Philip Vogt at the meeting of the common council Wednesday night at the city hall.

Among other things, he charged: That the club is broadcasting lies. That it has boasted it will out every alderman who upholds the ordinance.

That it claimed it will oust the mayor at the next election if he works for the ordinance. That the petitions—the club is circulating protesting the dog ordinance have been passed among high school students for signatures.

"These recently came to me that this club has voted to defeat every alderman who does not support the move to wipe the dog ordinance off the books," Alderman Vogt said. "The threats also were made against Mayor A. C. Rule."

"If we are to be dictated to by a small, selfish organization, I believe it is time to resign. If I cannot vote as I see fit for the best interests of the city, I do not care to be a member of the council any longer. But as long as I am on this body I intend to vote for what I consider right, despite all pressure to the contrary which may be brought to bear against me."

STORIES DISTORTED, CLAIM Before taking up his attack against The One Absolutely Unselfish Friend club, Alderman Vogt asked Mayor A. C. Rule about the truth of certain charges recently made up on the dog catcher.

Mayor Rule said he had investigated practically every complaint brought to his attention, and reported that in every instance the stories had been greatly distorted, and that there was no truth to them.

"One of them told the dog catcher had gone into a person's yard and taken away the woman's dog, from her own premises," Mayor Rule said. "I called this woman by telephone to verify the rumor, and learned there was not a word of truth to it. The woman told me that the dog catcher had chased her dog for several blocks when he found it running at large in the street, but that after the dog returned home, the catcher did not molest it any longer."

"Another time I heard the catcher had shot a dog several times, and that the dog, only injured but run beneath a porch and was left there to suffer until it died. Investigation disclosed that there was nothing to this story. The owner of the dog told me he had wished to dispose of the animal, but that after shooting it several times, the dog broke away and ran under the porch."

"The owner was unable to get the animal away from the porch, so he left it there all night. The next morning, when he heard the dog still growling, he called up the dog catcher. The latter went to the home, caught the dog, and put it out of its misery. Yet he was accused of shooting the animal and permitting it to run away and die."

SEES SELFISH MOTIVES

The mayor's report supported the contention of Alderman Vogt, he told the council. He said he also had investigated numerous complaints against the dog catcher, and found that in practically every instance the complaints were groundless.

"I am a friend and admirer of the dog, but I believe there are certain limits beyond which people cannot be expected to go," Mr. Vogt said. "For years our lawns and gardens have been the romping grounds for strange dogs, and we all know of the damage done on our premises by them. I do not think dog owners should have the right to ask other people to permit dogs to run about everywhere, but that is evidently what this newly organized club contends. Dog owners should provide romping places for their own dogs, and not expect their neighbors to do so."

He charged that the petitions the club has drawn up protesting against the dog ordinance has been circulated prominently among high school students.

"I said he thought the move back of the petition was selfish, and he bemoaned the fact that if a person objects to allowing dogs to play in his yard, he is branded a crank."

"This is merely another case of human beings who, in the pursuit of their own pleasure, become blinded to the comfort and pleasure of others," he said.

"I voted for this ordinance because I believe it is right. When the committee was preparing the ordinance for the council, it secured about 19 dog ordinances from the extension of the University of Wisconsin."

LENIENT, HE CLAIMS

"The one we finally recommended to the council was the fairest and the most lenient of the lot. Some cities do not even allow owners to take their dogs out on the streets with them."

Alderman Vogt pleaded with the council to suspend the measure it adopted so recently.

"It has come to a pretty state of affairs if we have to reconsider every action we take, which we know for the best interests of the city, because of the selfish objections of a small minority," he said. "If we ourselves to be so easily moved, we would be rescinding our laws continually."

Chairman Vogt then introduced a resolution which would authorize the council to publish an advertisement warning the ordinance in an impartial manner. Upon recommendation of the city attorney, however, no action was taken on the proposal.

The council, at an adjourned meeting Monday night, voted to submit the ordinance to a referendum at the special election on Tuesday, June 4. The election had been called to vote on the question of whether the city should buy the Riverview Country club property for a new senior high school site.

Working Among the Dead and Injured

The scene in front of Cleveland Clinic hospital, where scores of dead and injured were brought out of the building after a disastrous explosion and fire, is pictured above. Firemen, police and volunteers tried to save the patients after an explosion in the X-ray room started a fire that sent suffocating gas fumes through the building and into the streets outside. The hospital was the famous clinic of Dr. George W. Crile, noted Cleveland physician, surgeon and golfing specialist.

THRONGS SEEK THEIR KIN AT OHIO MORGUE

Horror Impressed on Faces of Dead in Cleveland Clinic Disaster

Cleveland — (P) — Through the long hours of the night a line of anxious-faced men, women and children streamed through the county morgue, hoping almost against hope that they would not find the body of some loved one, killed in the Cleveland Clinic disaster yesterday.

Realization of stark tragedy came to many as a sheet was raised, revealing the face of a relative, graven with the horror of his death. The struggle with the gas which killed most of the victims, left their faces distorted with terror and in several cases closest relatives could identify the dead only by their clothing and jewelry.

Beneath the sheets doctors lay beside the patients they had been treating; men beside the wives they had accompanied here for treatment.

Included among the dead were all classes — clubmen, day laborers, Catholics, Protestants and Jews.

CONTINUE IDENTIFICATION Three priests moved between the rows of sheeted bodies, anointing those believed to be Catholics.

A death-like hush, which hung over the bare-walled morgue was broken now and then by a woman's shriek as she came to the end of her quest.

Two rooms and the morgue garage housed the bodies, those of men lying one side of a wall, those of women the other. As the slow grim work of identification went on, names were written on number tags which had been placed on each body as it was brought in from the gas swept clinic.

Outside a crowd milled. Some were morbidly curious; others were waiting sadly and fearfully to enter in search of relatives. Police lines were hardly necessary, as it was a throng made orderly by grief.

WAR VETS APPOINT JULY 4 COMMITTEE

Legionnaires Meet and Discuss Plans for Celebration

A survey of plans for the American Legion July 4 celebration here this summer, was made at a meeting of committees Tuesday evening at the city hall. C. A. Sparling is general chairman of the day's events.

Between 40 and 45 vets and others interested in the project attended the meeting and a committee to arrange for the purchase of fireworks was appointed. The committee is composed of Fred Heintz, H. B. Syvester, Les Smith, George Bath, Joseph Schultz, J. H. Balliet and C. A. Sparling. The group will meet Friday, May 24, at a place to be determined later, and complete arrangements for fireworks purchases.

Concessions will be operated by Appleton people and members of the local post, and will include most every type, it was decided.

The state motorcycle meet will be held here July 4. Motorcycle polo game will be played between teams from Madison and Fond du Lac.

Oshkosh Eagles fight club will rent the city attorney, however, no action was taken on the proposal.

The council, at an adjourned meeting Monday night, voted to submit the ordinance to a referendum at the special election on Tuesday, June 4. The election had been called to vote on the question of whether the city should buy the Riverview Country club property for a new senior high school site.

Clinic Tragedy Is Among Greatest In U. S. History

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The explosion and fire at the Cleveland Clinic hospital yesterday ranks high in the list of disasters in institutions, public buildings and factories that have taken a heavy toll of life in the United States in the last 75 years.

Among these disasters were: Regiole theatre fire, Chicago, Dec. 30, 1903, 575 dead.

Conway's theatre fire, Brooklyn, N. Y., Dec. 5, 1878, 295 dead.

Harvey Schlitz Tells Kiwanis of Plans for Coming Year

Kiwanis and other service club members in the city can best serve Appleton by working as individuals in putting across the various programs of the chamber of commerce, Harvey Schlitz, chamber president told Appleton Kiwanis at their regular weekly meeting at the Conway hotel Wednesday noon.

Practically all members of the Kiwanis club, he said also are members of the chamber of commerce. Like others in the city they have a tendency to approve the programs to be carried out by the chamber of commerce but fail to give their individual support to the extra things that must be done to accomplish the end which has been set as a goal.

Generally there is not enough individual participation in chamber activities, Mr. Schlitz said, adding that if 75 per cent of the members of the chamber became actively engaged in working for various programs, they would be accomplished with ease.

The chamber president then launched into a discussion of various things the chamber hoped to accomplish soon. Among them was getting an apartment house erected in the city and have work started that would bring about a garbage disposal plant. He also told of the work of committees in having signs erected advertising Appleton, the plan to have federal highway 10 run directly into Appleton, and the move to have the county line road east of the city improved.

Kenneth Corbett secretary of the chamber of commerce also addressed the Kiwanis on activities of the vigilance committee. He told of numerous instances where advertising solicitors have come to Appleton, sold space in books that never were printed or were printed and left with the publishers because they were out of date or had no bonafide purpose.

Another group the vigilance committee checks on, according to Mr. Corbett, is the salesman who has novelty advertising for sale, usually articles that have no purpose. In closing his address he asked support of the Kiwanis in the chamber's effort to stop solicitors in their efforts here and asked that solicitors be forced to show an endorsement card from the chamber before they are given any consideration.

"Plans of the rural affairs committee for the coming year were outlined by John R. Riedl, chairman of the committee.

their ring to the Appleton legionnaires for the amateur card to be staged during the afternoon of July 4, it was reported, and plans for completion of the fight arrangements now are being made.

The vets also hope to have several bands here for the day's entertainment and several drum and bugle corps. The Appleton Eagles corps will parade and probably the corps at Oshkosh and Fond du Lac.

HEROIC PHONE GIRL DIES BRAVELY WHILE SENDING WARNINGS

Cleveland — (P) — Among the bravest heroines of the Cleveland disaster was Gladys Gibson of Cleveland, a telephone operator at the clinic, who deliberately faced her death while sending out alarm and who died soon after in a hospital.

The brave telephone girl saw death approaching in the form of a ghastly yellow poison gas, but she stayed at her exchange booth making heroic efforts to warn everyone in the clinic of their danger, and to rally police, firemen and ambulances.

Faster than ever before in her life she worked, plugging in socket after socket in the switchboard as she set all telephones in the clinic to ringing madly their alarm of death.

Finally the heroic girl collapsed. Someone carried her out and soon she died in the hospital.

"Greater love hath no man," said a priest with tears in his eyes, as he saw Gladys die. "She died as bravely as she had lived, was a brave and noble girl. Gladys with a smile on her lips."

DROP CHARGES AGAINST LONG IN LOUISIANA

Senate Court Adjourns After 15 Members Move to Prevent Conviction

Baton Rouge, La. — (P) — The Louisiana senate court of impeachment today abandoned trial of Gov. Huey P. Long and dissolved by unanimous consent without hearing any testimony on the impeachment charges against him.

Decision to adjourn was reached at a caucus of 24 senators after Senator Phillip H. Gilbert had presented a motion for adjournment signed by 15 senators, one more than necessary to prevent conviction of the governor.

The senators prepared a statement deploring the attitude of the 15 senators, but declaring that in view of their stand it would be impossible to convict the governor regardless of the evidence and it would be a waste of time and money to continue the impeachment case.

Baton Rouge, La. — (P) — Surprise attacks from both camps were predicted today for the senate impeachment trial of Gov. Huey P. Long as the result of overnight conferences.

Reports were discussed freely of a coup planned by the Long forces that, if successful, would stop the trial immediately and dissolve the court of impeachment.

Two lines were under discussion at the night conferences. One provided for amotion to reconsider the action of yesterday when the court refused to sustain Long's first demurrer to declare seven of the eight charges illegal in that they were voted by the house after the expiration of the time limit in the governor's call for the extraordinary legislative session which turned itself into an impeachment court.

In order to get reconsideration, a motion to suspend the rules must be made by a senator who voted against sustaining the demurrer. An effort was made during the night to swing one of the senators, but the success or failure will not be determined definitely until the senate court meets today. If such a senator can be obtained, the tables would be turned on the prosecution and instead of the demurrer being rejected by a vote of 20 to 19 it would be sustained by that vote provided the original lines held.

TRY TO SWAY SOLONS The other move dealt with an effort to obtain the signatures of 15 senators to a petition to the senate setting forth that regardless of the testimony produced at the trial they would vote against impeachment as they believed the procedure was in violation of constitutional provisions. This maneuver was regarded as remote, however and attention was centered chiefly on the reconsideration plan.

Early in the night the prosecution heard of the defense plans and set out as vigorously to defeat the maneuver. Every effort was made to hold the lines and to continue with the trial. Since the eighth charge, dealing with an attempt to intimidate Charles P. Manship, Baton Rouge publisher, was thrown out by the senate late yesterday by a vote of 21 to 18, the case against the governor would be dismissed if the first demurrer should be reconsidered and sustained.

If the trial is not stopped witnesses will be called to testify on the seven remaining charges including general incompetency, misuse of public funds and attempts to bribe legislators into supporting the governor's taxation program.

Church Choir to Meet The Mount Olive church choir will meet for rehearsal in the church parlors at 7:45 Thursday evening under the direction of Professor Hiram Johnson. Russell Wichman will be piano accompanist.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Downer's Inc. adv.

Clinic Head Directs Aid In Tragedy

Dr. Crile, Honored by Three Nations, Heroic When Disaster Comes

Cleveland, O. — (P) — A keen-eyed, gray-haired man honored the world over for his medical work trudged slowly through the Cleveland Clinic today like many a man who carries a heavy burden on his shoulders. He is Dr. George W. Crile, who has seen the institution which he brought into being made a death trap by some of the very scientific apparatus with which he had labored for years.

Dr. Crile, famed for a host of medical advancements and honored by the governments of the United States, Great Britain, and France, was in an operating room when the suffocating gas loosed by the burning of X-ray films wiped out more than 115 lives. He was not informed of the tragedy until he had completed his operation.

Clad in his white uniform, he stepped to the lawn of the hospital and took command of treatment of the victims.

"They're all gassed. It's a film gas," he clipped out, and then plunged into a battle hardly less terrible than the horrors he experienced while serving the Lakeside Medical unit of the A. E. F. during the World war.

A nurse, almost lifeless, who had served with him in France, was lying on the grass.

"Clear the way. Give them more air," Dr. Crile shouted. "Have we oxygen enough? Firemen? Firemen, more firemen," he spoke crisply, but calmly.

Two hours later all the bodies had been removed and he went back to the hospital to supervise and organize relief work there.

Two more hours and firemen and hospital attendants had the work well in hand. Then a young surgeon dashed up with the report that blood transfusion was the only hope of saving the life of Dr. John Phillips, one of the founders of the clinic and a colleague of Dr. Crile's and he was on his way to supervise the transfusion. # PARENTS OFTEN TO BLAME FOR WAYWARD SONS, JUDGE SAYS

Heinemann Says Boy Scout Movement Lets Boys See Life as It Is

Boy problems and methods of handling them in juvenile courts were discussed by Judge Fred Heinemann at the seventh weekly session of the Valley Council boy scout leader's training conference at Armory G. Wednesday evening. Cloyd Schroeder, deputy scout commissioner spoke to the 44 men and boys on map making, and M. G. Clark, valley scout executive told of his experience at the camp directors' school at Indian Mounds Reservation, Milwaukee scout camp, last week.

"In the majority of cases where youngsters go wrong, parents are to blame," Judge Heinemann stated. "Mothers and fathers who pamper their boys and give them everything they want without hesitation don't realize that the boy will grow up with a selfish outlook on life."

"Statistics prove that most of the boys who go wrong as soon as they have reached an age where they are able to get out of the sight of their fathers and mothers, are those who were pampered and babied at home."

"I approve of the Valley Boy Scout program and believe that it is one of the organizations which tends to take the boy out of the home temporarily and show him the open spaces and real life."

"Experience proves that those boys who are forced to live on their own from childhood on are the most successful and are among the cleanest men."

"It is necessary that youngsters go out into the open where life is real, and learn how to give and take, experiencing the real bumps. They will never learn by having mother and father following them around and acting as rose colored glasses through which they get their ideas of life," the speaker said.

Mr. Schroeder illustrated his talk on map making and reading with a government topographical map. Several of the conference students have elected map making as their major projects.

SHERIFF SAYS DOG OWNERS MUST KEEP ANIMALS CONFINED

Calls Attention to Fact That Quarantine Order Is Still in Effect

Sheriff Fred W. Giese Thursday issued a warning to dog owners of Outagamie-co, cautioning them not to forget that the county is still under quarantine put into effect on order of the state department of agriculture.

The sheriff said he had received a number of complaints about dogs running loose and that investigations are to be made.

"While we may not be in accord with the state department which ordered the quarantine, we must remember it is a law and as long as the quarantine remains it is my duty as sheriff to enforce it," Mr. Giese pointed out. "I am a dog lover, as well as many thousands of other residents of the county, but under the quarantine rule we have no choice but to keep the animals in confinement."

"Under the quarantine rule any citizen is allowed to kill a dog that is not confined or accompanied by its owner."

Sheriff's deputies are to receive orders to see that the ordinance is enforced but they are to be instructed to use caution in making the enforcement as the sheriff sees no need for a needless slaughter of dogs.

The ordinance went into effect several weeks ago and efforts of Appleton veterinarians to have the ban lifted have been fruitless so far. The veterinarians claim there is no reason for the quarantine to be in effect now because the outbreak which was experienced sometime ago has entirely subsided.

TREAT 612 BUSHELS OF SEED POTATOES

Thirty farmers took 612 bushels of seed potatoes to be treated for scab and scurf at four treating clinics on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the county under direction of Gus Sell, county agent. Mr. Sell was assisted by John Seaman, potato expert from the state department of agriculture. Mr. Seaman gave short addresses at each of the clinics on the purposes and value of seed potato treating. On Monday 14 farmers brought 110 bushels of seed to be treated at Rosser's Cheese factory west of Hortonville and at the Wolf River Dairy company in New London. On Tuesday 16 farmers brought 376 bushels of seed for treatment at Rosser's Cheese factory at Medina; and on Wednesday 12 farmers brought 126 bushels of seed for treatment at the Tom Day Cheese factory in the town of Ellington.

2 OUTSTANDING ADVANTAGES

ALL THE MECHANISM IS ON TOP

THE CABINET IS ALL-STEEL

OF the many advantages of General Electric Refrigerators, two are especially vital—the hermetically sealed, on-top mechanism and the all-steel warp-proof cabinet.

The mechanism in any electric refrigerator has but one purpose—to absorb heat from the food. It must be permitted to radiate that heat rapidly just as heat is conducted away from the engine of your car. As heat naturally rises, it can be radiated from the top of the refrigerator. To place the radiating coils anywhere else cuts down their efficiency and increases the cost of operation.

Mounted on top, away from dust and difficulties, permanently oiled and hermetically sealed, this arrangement of the mechanism leaves maximum space available within the cabinet for food storage.

And now has been added the new all-steel cabinet. Built like a safe, it can't warp—it operates on the least amount of current—its doors always retain their perfect fit which shuts out heat. In six sizes at prices surprisingly low. The small family size is but $215, at the factory. Come in and see them and let us tell you our plan of conveniently spaced payments.

Listen in on the General Electric Hour, broadcast every Saturday evening, 8 to 9 Eastern Standard Time, over the N. B. C. network of 42 stations.

HOUSE CHIEFS BOUND TO BAR BONUS CLAUSE

Want to Prove Loyalty to Hoover by Preventing Vote on Senate Bill

FIGHT ON LEGAL GROUND

Would Avoid Embarrassment to Republican Members from Middle West

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright 1929 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—Now that the senate has passed the farm bill, the house leaders are going to try to demonstrate how much more loyal they are to President Hoover than the brethren in the senate.
To submit the bill to a vote in the house means embarrassment.
There are Republicans from the middle west who do not dare to be recorded against the export debenture plan. The strategy, therefore, is not to let the export plan itself come to a vote. Hence the fight on constitutional grounds. The constitution says that revenue legislation must originate in the house of representatives. The export debenture plan affects tariff receipts.
So there will be considerable talk about how important it is to observe constitutional properties. And what member of the house would be blamed if he insisted on the letter of the constitution especially now-days when there is so much discussion about law enforcement and respect for the constitution and all amendments thereof.
To force a vote on whether the export debenture plan belongs in the bill that the senate transmits to the house for action is an entirely different issue from that which faced the Republicans in the senate. In the one case a senator had the chance to vote on whether the proposed farm board should consider the export debenture plan as a possible solution of agricultural problems. In the case of a member of the house however it will not be debated whether the export debenture plan is good or bad, whether the farm board shall apply it or not. It will be argued that if the house had wanted that particular plan in the bill it had the opportunity to do so when the measure itself was debated, it is stricken from the bill and made a part of the legislation even by following the constitutional process for the house will not have the farm bill up again except on a conference report and the rules are that no new legislation can be tacked on there except after reference from a committee and the chances are that no expert debenture plan would come out of the agricultural committee of the house.

TACTICAL MOVE
The big point in the strategy of house leaders is to save agricultural members the embarrassment of voting for or against the debenture plan. They want to eliminate it on constitutional grounds and also avoid the necessity of forcing it out of conference through prolonged deadlock. The friends of the debenture plan would not be dismayed if the scheme were thrown out of the farm bill but would proceed to tack it on the tariff bill when it reaches the senate. This legislation having originated in the house can be amended in the senate and presented to the house for action in the regular way. The debenture method of handling the farm surplus is getting almost as much momentum as the equalization fee had in the last session and while at the moment it looks as if the house would stand by the president the latter may have to use his veto power before the farm elements will realize how much time is being consumed in the effort to get legislation through which cannot possibly have his approval.

NOTICE TO OWNERS OF ALEMITE-EQUIPPED CARS

To Be Sure Genuine Alemite Lubricants—Lubricants Made Especially for Use in Alemite High Pressure Lubricating Systems—Are Used in Your Car

Go to the Alemite-ing Stations Listed Below
—Look for the Yellow Sign

Owners of cars, equipped with the Alemite High Pressure Lubricating Systems, frequently ask whether or not a special type of lubricant is required in those systems.

The answer is, "yes." All greases are not fitted to the Alemite Systems. The use of unknown, inferior greases, frequently found in haphazard
"Greasing Stations" claiming "High Pressure Lubrication," is seriously urged against.

Even systematic "greasing" of that nature, based on mileage, is not PROPER LUBRICATION. Nor is it insurance against the Improper Lubrication to which 80% of all repair bills are traced by authorities.

Simple Protection Now

For your own protection, the obviously sensible thing is to go direct to a genuine Alemite-ing Station for lubrication service. To have your car Alemited; not "greased."

These stations, listed below, identified by the Yellow Sign shown here, use special Alemite Lubricants. Lubricants developed by the makers of the Alemite Systems, themselves, after years of research, as CORRECT for those systems.
Lubricants that NEVER VARY in quality.

How To Increase the Trade-In Value of Your Car

Alemite High Pressure Lubricating Systems together with Alemite Lubricants especially designed for the most efficient results in these systems, lengthen car life and largely eliminate 80% of all repair bills. Car manufacturers recognize this—so more than 95% of today's cars are equipped with Alemite.

A properly lubricated automobile means a long-lived automobile—one that naturally commands a higher trade-in value.

So Alemite now offers Recorded Alemite Service—a certified record of all the lubrication services performed on your car. A record that "pedigrees" it and will increase the re-sale value of your car 10% or more.

The dealers whose names appear in this advertisement offer genuine Alemite-ing with genuine Alemite Lubricants. Ask them about the new
R. A. S.—Recorded Alemite Service.

Efficient mechanics serve you at these stations.
You get the ultimate in scientific lubrication to protect your car's life; to give you smoother operation and amazingly fewer repair bills.

What Alemite-ing Consists Of

1. BEARINGS: Alemite High Pressure Lubricant forced into every vital chassis bearing with Alemite equipment by expert Alemite mechanics
—every 500 miles.
2. GEARS: Differential and transmission thoroughly flushed out by a special Alemite process. New Alemite Gear Lubricant forced in—every 2,500 miles.
3. SPRINGS: Springs sprayed with special Alemite Graphite Penetrating Oil—every 500 miles. Eliminating ALL spring squeaks and making the car run immeasurably smoother.

Just drive your car to one of the stations listed below and try this service. You will notice an immediate difference in the way your car runs.

Specially Designed Equipment for Alemite-ing

Now you can be sure. Watch the work yourself.
Not a bearing will be missed. And the work will be done in just a few minutes with latest type super-machines. Most of the Alemite dealers listed below use this type of equipment.

1—Alemite Guns

(typical example at right)
Special Alemite high pressure guns are used. Guns that produce pressures of thousands of pounds per square inch, and will force fresh, clean lubricant into the chassis bearings, replacing the old grit and grease.
Work done in a few minutes' time.

2—Alemite Gear Flasher

This type of machine washes out the transmission and differential with a strong, forceful stream of distillate. The electric motor gives sufficient force to clean out the metal filings and other foreign matter.

3—Alemite Spring Sprayer

This spray operates by compressed air and forces Alemite graphite penetrating oil between each leaf of the spring. It is also used for taking out squeaks located in the body of the car. The oil evaporates and leaves a dry film of graphite. No more collection of road dust, because we do not use cheap crank case oil.

In having your car lubricated insist on genuine Alemite lubricants. These lubricants cost the dealers more money—but costs you no more than ordinary greasing.

The Reason Why

we can give you the best automobile lubrication is because we do genuine Alemite-ing. We use only genuine Alemite lubricants, lubricants prepared specifically for automobile chassis and gears. They will withstand heat and pressure and give you a frictionless car. And we can give you complete lubrication, for at our station you may receive:

1. Alemite-ing—thorough chassis lubrication with genuine Alemite Lubricant.
2. Alemite Gear Service—transmission and differential gears flushed out and refilled with Alemite Gear Lubricant.
3. Alemite Spring Service—springs and body seams sprayed with Alemite Graphite Oil.

And then you can drive a frictionless, squeakless car.

EMBARRASSING THE PRESIDENT

A combination of Democrats and Republican extremists has forced the farm relief bill through the senate with the debenture feature, which is objectionable to both the house and the president, incorporated. The primary responsibility for this falls upon the Democrats who voted almost solidly to incorporate the debenture provision in the bill, as well as for its final passage. With the aid of the small farm bloc of the Mid-west they were able to put over a scheme that is manifestly political and designed to embarrass the administration.

The subsidy which the debenture plan would attempt to confer is in direct opposition to time-honored Democratic doctrines. That party has always consistently attacked bonuses and subsidies of every sort. For years it fought Republican protection on the ground that above a certain level it was a subsidy. As a matter of fact, the subsidy is Republican rather than Democratic policy, although in recent years the Grand Old Party has shown a disposition to shy at it.

This combination between Democrats and disgruntled Republicans shows how much the country can rely upon the upper branch of congress as at present constituted for the consideration of legislation on its merits. The vote of 54 to 33 does not reveal the real opposition in the senate to the debenture, eight Republicans and one Democrat who were opposed to that device, voting for the bill.

The measure now goes to conference, results of which appear to be uncertain. The house rejected the debenture plan by a large vote, and if the administration so desires will undoubtedly continue to oppose its acceptance. Whether this would mean a deadlock that would prevent enactment of any farm legislation no one can be sure at this time. President Hoover may or may not have something to say, or he may reveal indirectly his attitude in such an eventuality.

The bitter effort to force adoption of the debenture is a survival of Haugensism and the wild cat sprint of the last congress after the equalization fee. The election, so far as it was possible to judge, was a definite rejection of this and similar nostrums. It was a clear endorsement of Mr. Hoover's farm program, which was specifically stated in a number of his addresses and which admitted of no misunderstanding. However, enough of the radicals survived this extraordinary election to make a combination with the Democrats effective in the senate.

Mr. Coolidge had the courage to stand his ground twice against the equalization fee. If Mr. Hoover's record is an indication of what we may anticipate from him, he will do the same with the debenture plan. And if he does the country will accept his judgment and support his decision.

SUPREME JUDGES' PENSIONS
Public attention should be directed to a bill before the legislature which provides a pension of half pay for the justices of the supreme court who, having served for ten years or more, arrive at the age of sixty-five and find it necessary to resign their positions because of advancing ill health or incapacity.

The bill should become a law because it would tend to make secure the old age of those who have not only devoted high talents to the benefit of the state but have voluntarily foregone the greater emoluments of private practice to serve the public.

We have had capable men resign from the supreme court because they have felt it their duty to their families to earn more and thus provide a safe future when the earning days are over. It is only about fifteen years ago that the lawyers of the state raised a fund of about $20,000.00 to present to the chief justice who had devoted some thirty years or more to his judicial duties and found himself aged, infirm and without means. The necessity for such resignations or contributions should never again be permitted.

BURNING THE "PROPERTY."
A Price county officer was recently convicted of arson by a jury because, after discovering some contraband liquor in a shed, he destroyed not only the liquor but the shed. Judge Risjord of Ashland who presided at the trial freed the officer upon the ground that he could not be guilty of arson as the shed he destroyed lost its identity as property as soon as it was used to house liquor, therefore the officer having destroyed no property could not be guilty of arson because that is the offense of burning property.

Naturally enough a newspaper hesitates to join issue with a circuit judge in the interpretation of the laws though it will not be blamed for hoping that the trial judge has made an error, for if that principle obtains to what extent will it not run us? Here it happens that only a lowly shed was laid down to ashes, but if a shed why not a barn, a house, a business block? And if a constable or a sheriff has authority to turn himself into judge and jury and to destroy property erected by the arduous labor of others, we will have found that our enforcement officers, most of whom are picked at random, and few of whom are elected by the people, are armed with powers that would make a dictator green with envy.

It is conceivable that certain sorts of property may have in the law, no property value. Illicit liquor is one. A slot machine is another. But these are articles that have no lawful purpose and can be put to none. A building that may be, and most often is, devoted to lawful purposes, certainly should not be classed with moonshine and gambling devices, merely because the one presently entitled to its occupancy uses it for an unlawful purpose.

The worst thing about the officer's destruction of the shed is that it was done summarily. No attempt was made to notify the owner. No chance was given for "the other side of the story." Civilized peoples, and by that we mean all humankind except savages, do not proceed to the imprisonment or injury of a man or the destruction of his property without an opportunity for a full and fair hearing. Our laws designate that that opportunity shall be exercised in the presence of a judge who in arriving at the facts is given the assistance of a jury. It would seem that the jury which convicted the officer had a much deeper sense of the basic values in our laws than the judge who set aside their verdict. The correctness of his decision will be passed upon by the supreme court. If it is found to be correct under existing laws it is time the legislature got busy.

HIGH INTEREST RATE
New York, biggest and richest city on earth, having to borrow $52,000,000 the other day, was obliged to pay 5 1/4 per cent interest for it. This is the highest rate paid in a good many years. It is a remarkable rate of interest for any American community to pay for any public loan. Around four per cent would be reasonable.

The United States government itself was gouged nearly as bad recently when it had to raise several hundred millions. Many cities are having to pay more for money than the metropolises.

Why must such high interest be paid for public loans when the soundest security on earth stands back of them? The answer is because the country's credit has been poured into Wall street to finance stock speculation. Find some way to check that, and then legitimate public and private business can borrow on fair terms again. The Federal Reserve board is doing what it can, and should have support in all responsible quarters.

On July 4, 1929, the earth will be farthest from the sun for the year, when the distance will be 94,450,000 miles, as compared with the sun's nearest on January 1, when it was 91,340,900 miles away.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—For a number of years ultra-fashionable Park avenue has had a "man of mystery," a bachelor who lives alone in the artistic luxury of a large and handsome penthouse bungalow.

Only a few intimate friends have known the story of Carl W. Hamilton, who made a fortune in coconut oil and spent it on the oils of old masters. His decision to sell two rare Italian paintings, the "Philippe, Lippi's 'Madonna and Child' and Piero della Francesca's 'Crucifixion,' however, has brought to light something of his past.

WAR-TIME FORTUNE
Hamilton, now 42 years old, presumably started on his career as a poor boy, or at least one of very moderate means, for he worked his way through Andover academy and Yale, where, although he studied art, he also apparently developed a talent for making money.

It is no doubt was a happy circumstance that he was graduated from Yale in 1912, just before the war. At any rate, he became interested in the Philippine coconut industry and also engaged in speculation in the subsequent and prosperous years.

Having always been devoted to art, Hamilton, in 1917, began to collect paintings and furniture of the Italian Renaissance, in the purchase of which he was advised by the foremost authorities, including Sir Joseph Duveen. With a few years he had acquired a collection, the cost of which is estimated at some $4,000,000.

Among his treasures are a score of "old masters." The most valuable perhaps, aside from the two offered for sale, is Domenico Veneziano's "St. John in the Desert," valued at more than $750,000.

Malcolm Vaughan, in "The Art News," has ranked the collection among the supreme treasures in our country. The "Madonna" and the "Crucifixion" alone were appraised at approximately $1,500,000.

But along with his speedy success, Hamilton also is said to have suffered reverses. It is said that in two weeks he lost $8,000,000, some of it on notes endorsed for others. According to the story, as told by acquaintances, he devoted the following years to paying back these losses.

Meanwhile, so the story goes, Andrew Mellon, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Clarence Mackay and other collectors importuned him to sell them some of his pictures. He refused to part with any of them.

Lately, however, Hamilton has been less active in business, although he retains a connection with the American Philippine company, the Philippine Refining corporation and the Leverhulme soap interests of England.

HELPS POOR TO LEARN
Of Hamilton's personal life, little is known. It is said, however, that his principal philanthropy has been the payment of college tuition for several impecunious young men of artistic talent, among them a pianist and a violinist of promise.

Thus he is, in a way, a patron of art as well as a collector.

Today's Anniversary
Eighteen years ago today the United States treasury invited bids for $50,000,000 worth of bonds to complete construction of the Panama Canal.

The total cost of this gigantic work was approximately $55,000,000, but $113,000,000 of this was written off to national debt, since it represented the cost of military features which would not have been necessary had the canal merely commercially valuable to the nation.

The canal was opened for navigation Aug. 15, 1914. It is a little more than 50 land miles long; the minimum depth of the channel is 41 feet and in parts of Gatun lake is about 80 feet. A five-mile wide strip of land flanking the canal was purchased by the United States from Panama for $10,000,000, plus an annual rental of $250,000.

Since the opening of the canal, tolls has totaled almost $30,000,000. About three times as much cargo moves from the Pacific to the Atlantic as in the opposite direction. Sugar from Hawaii and oil from California account for this.

LIKE THE LEGEND OF MARCH
Every doctor who has had five or 10 years of experience in general practice, as every doctor should have before he presumes to hold himself out as a specialist, altho, alas, very few of the ruck of specialists these days have so qualified; every common, ordinary family doctor, the sort you invariably think of when someone is alarmingly ill in the middle of a dark and disagreeable night, even if you patronize specialists exclusively when the sun shines, and nothing serious ails you; every real physician knows that in good faith a man must remove the smile from many a patient's countenance, and send the patient away with a scowl, a frown, a sneer or a snarl these included. To be sure, there are happy instances where the doctor may, without compromise, reverse this process; but these happy occasions are not frequent enough to compensate, and so a doctor's view of life is likely to acquire an icteric tinge unless he can find means to stimulate counter emotions. All this comes to things as they were, to conditions of practice up to the year 1927.

Now a miracle has happened. It makes me feel, for the first time, envious and jealous of the young doctor who is just entering practice. It is merely a new gadget provided by the technical knowledge and skill of the instrument maker. It is placed in the hands of the doctor, a power over ache, pain, soreness, stiffness, local infection and inflammation, such as healers have never known before. The necessary equipment costs the doctor as much as an automobile. I don't know about intrinsic value, but all I have observed I believe no automobile can bring the young doctor or the old doctor so satisfactory a return on the investment.

How different the outlook on life for the doctor equipped with this truly marvelous remedial agency. Patients we formerly dismissed with a prescription and a promise still come complaining as of yore, but if they come in cussing they go off smiling; if they limp or sneering they hop out circling. And the relief is not merely momentary, as one might assume, it lasts for hours or for days or sometimes permanently.

Even if this diathermy never cures anything—if it doesn't, then we have no cures in all medicine—it is in my judgment the most valuable therapeutic acquisition that has been made in our generation. Even if it were of no other service than the desiccation of coagulation treatment of diseased and enlarged tonsils, I should still classify it among the great advances of modern medicine. But when one has observed the application of diathermy in various modifications and through various ingenious methods of application, the painless obliteration of skin lesions or blemishes, the successful treatment of gynecological ailments, the apparent quick cure and certainty lasting relief of gonorrheal arthritis, the sterilization or painless destruction of septic foci in tonsils or adenoids and the radical treatment of chronic nose and throat conditions, the magic dispersion of soreness and stiffness from strains and similar injuries, one feels impelled to tell the world the good news.

I do hope I am moderate and absolutely fair in my report of this great new remedy. I hope too, that the medical brethren who are not yet familiarized with diathermy will exercise restraint in their opinions of it when patients ask about it.

A BYSTANDER IN WASHINGTON

BY HERBERT C. PLUMMER
Washington—There's a little cafeteria in Washington, almost within the shadow of the dome of the capitol building, whose owner boasts of the fact that she rarely missed a day in seven years serving a chicken salad sandwich to the late Senator Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin.

The cafeteria has other claims to fame as well.

Charles Evans Hughes lunches there frequently when his duties keep him on capitol hill during time for lunch. Associate Justice Edward T. Sanford of the supreme court also finds time to leave his office and walk across the street to partake of the stuffed egg salad prepared by the hands of the "Lady from Tennessee."

The "Lady from Tennessee," by the way, is Mrs. Hugh Fred; and the name of her cafeteria is The Ugly Duckling. For over seven years she has superintended preparation of southern dishes which she knows will appeal to her illustrious clientele.

Mrs. Fred knows from experience what her customers like and look for at The Ugly Duckling. For instance, she never fails to have apple pie and butter scotch pie every day. Not once in seven years has she failed to provide these two delicacies.

Her cooks are the best that she can obtain. She has an inviolable rule that no cook who ever has prepared meals for a hotel or restaurant can find employment in her cafeteria.

"Home cooking" is no empty phrase here.

AMONG THOSE PRESENT
Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama came in for lunch the other day while we were there.

Rep. Fred A. Britten of Illinois, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, strolled in leisurely.

John Tyler Page, clerk of the house and a grand nephew of President Tyler, appeared shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Florence Kahn, representative in congress from California, and Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Massachusetts arrived together. We were interested to see that Mrs. Kahn ordered fried chicken and fresh asparagus. Mrs. Fred later told us that this was her favorite food, and when she couldn't get chicken she called for fish.

Rep. Andrew J. Montague of Virginia came in and ordered a Spanish omelet.

Willis C. Hawley, member of congress from Oregon, also put in his appearance and ordered his favorite luncheon food—a chicken sandwich.

Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas also was a guest that day. His food was fried chicken.

And there were many others.

FLASHES FROM HOLLYWOOD

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—Shakespeare is getting his innings in the talkies. With Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks preparing to do "The Taming of the Shrew" and John Barrymore seriously considering "Hamlet."

And now a dean of the American and English stage declares he sees in the Avon bard's plays not only great talkie possibilities, but regards them as "an absolute necessity."

Geoffrey Arliss, who with 300 performances as Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice" approached the record for this role; is in Hollywood again and talking for the screen for the first time in "The Green Goddess," which in 1923 he made as a silent picture.

"As soon as we put dialog into films we enter the realm of literature," Arliss says, "and once we enter the literature of the stage, we are bound to include into the great Shakespearean drama on the screen. Otherwise we shall have an incomplete repertoire of plays. We must include the classics."

POPULARIZING WILLIAM
The only question, he believes, is how long to wait until it is felt that the great audience associated with the motion picture is prepared to accept Shakespearean drama on the screen.

"But in the old days, before my time," he points out, "when theatrical companies went into the small villages and hamlets, Shakespeare was always a strong drawing card, and this shows that his plays do have great popular appeal."

"Some of the greatest students of Shakespeare are from what we call, for lack of a better word, the middle classes. When a Shakespearean play is presented in a theater it is always the cheapest seats that are sold out first, showing that the wealthy who patronize the dress circle have no monopoly on appreciation of the classics."

NO CUTTING
Shakespearean talkies will serve to interest the people in beautiful dialog, Arliss believes. Nor must the movies compromise with the fiction of his plays in an attempt to "modernize" the language: "We can transpose, and cut, but we cannot alter Shakespeare," he maintains.

Arliss himself expresses a desire to do Shylock for the talkies, and also to play lago of "Othello." But his immediate program is to make "Disraeli" and "The Devil," both phenomenal stage successes of his.

Finely preserved and groomed as ever, in spite of his advancing age, Arliss has perhaps the most unusual working hours in Hollywood, where night shifts and sometimes day-in-night hours are in vogue. A strict provision of his contract is that he shall work only from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.—and no Sunday labors.

HOUSE READY TO RECEIVE SENATE BILL

Favor Action to Avoid Delay but Protest "Invasion of Rights"

Washington — (AP)—House Republican leaders decided today to receive the senate debenture export farm relief bill so it might be sent to conference, but said in approving such procedure they felt senate inclusion of the debenture proposition constituted an invasion upon the constitutional prerogative of the house to initiate revenue raising legislation.

This course of action was decided upon at a meeting of Republican steering committee.

Previously a number of house Republicans had favored refusal by the house to accept the bill with the debenture plan included. Representative Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, however, said the procedure had been approved in order to expedite action on farm legislation.

WOULD ELIMINATE CLAUSE

It is expected the farm bill now formally will be sent to conference with the senate either late today or tomorrow. House leaders are hopeful they can prevail upon the conference group to eliminate the debenture proposition.

Hopes for a summer vacation for most members of congress were raised today by the progress made in negotiations to avert the threatened controversy.

The outcome apparently rested with the Republican steering committee of the house, which was called upon today to decide whether the bill should be received as passed by the senate with the disputed debenture section in it or sent back on the ground that only the house has the constitutional right to initiate such legislation.

House leaders were convinced that the senate had invaded the right of the house to initiate revenue legislation, and favored a clear expression of that position in any rule which might be adopted permitting the senate bill to be received and submitted to conference with the measure passed by the house for adjustment of differences.

PLANS FOR RECESS

Speaker Longworth had discovered plans for a recess of six weeks or two months by the house after it completes its work on the pending tariff bill and the farm relief measure. Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, looking in the same direction, said the senate probably would take a recess of 30 days or thereabouts after receiving the tariff bill and referring it to the finance committee for hearings and revision.

Although farm relief remained the dominant topic of interest at the capitol generally, the house was still concerned today with its general debate on the tariff bill and the senate had before it the combined measure providing for the 1930 census and reapportionment of the house membership on the basis of that enumeration. The senate also was called upon today to act on the contested nomination of former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, to the post of customs appeals.

Reports of the house ways and means committee continued to hold themselves open to suggestions from colleagues who are dissatisfied with various rate proposals in the tariff bill they drafted, with a view to submitting those with which they can agree to the house as committee amendments.

The Senate Interstate Commerce committee was still engaged with its hearing on the proposal to set up a federal communications commission, and the reclamation committee was called to take action on a bill to appropriate $12,000,000 to encourage agriculture in the south.

LONGEST CABLE ROAD

Berlin—What is said to be the longest cable railroad in the world is shortly to open at Oberstdorf in the German Tyrolean Alps. It stretches over seven miles from a station in the valley to the heights above the town, and will be able to carry 150 passengers each trip. The cable is stretched from 8 reinforced concrete piers, each over 30 feet high. The greatest span is more than 3,000 feet in length.

STATION CLERK NOW PRESIDENT OF RAILROAD

New Haven, Conn. — (AP)—The board of directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad searched the entire country for a president to succeed the late Edward J. Pearson before giving the job to John J. Pelley, who, 39 years ago, was a station clerk for the Illinois Central.

Mr. Pelley is an executive who knows how to lay rails and drive spikes. He was born in Anna, Ill., in 1878 and finished his classroom education at the University of Illinois. He got a job as station clerk for the Illinois Central at the age of 21 and remained with that company for 20 years in capacities ranging from assistant foreman of a track gang to vice president.

In 1926 he became president of the Central Railway of Georgia and it was that post he left to take up his new duties. In manner and outlook he is product of the steel trail. He is square jawed and soft spoken with a knack of making friends of both railroad patrons and employees.

The coordination of rail and bus transportation is one of his specialties. Within five minutes of the time he had hung up his hat for the first time in his New Haven England's industrial and transport problems.

DEAN TO SPEAK TO UNION ON COLLEGE ROW

Callaway Will Demand Ouster of Dr. Shields and Miss Rebman

Buffalo, N. Y. — (AP)—The hitherto harmonious aspect of the Baptist Bible Union convention here, took on a disturbed tinge today when Dean Earl Callaway of Des Moines university, envoy of President H. C. Wayman, dismissed with the faculty of the fundamental school by the trustees, charged from the floor that his side had been "steam rolled" by Dr. Thomas A. Shields and the board and had "not been given a chance to present their case."

Envoys from President Wayman indicated today they would fight for a chance to present their side of the school row, either on the floor of the Baptist Bible Union convention here or at a meeting in a hotel later.

In a verbal tilt today Dr. Shields, about whom the fight was centered, was heard to challenge Dean Callaway "and his whole crowd."

Dr. Shields was exonerated by unanimous vote of the delegates yesterday for his conduct of school affairs.

ASKS SHIELDS' OUSTER

Dean Callaway said he would give ten reasons why Dr. Shields and Miss Edith Rebman, secretary of the board of trustees, should step to one side and allow others to lead the Bible Union.

Dr. Shields said later that he had no objection to Mr. Callaway's speaking at this afternoon's session if his talk was not of too controversial nature.

Callaway said there were many acts that trustees should know, and that they had "spent their time chasing rumors," referring to charges made against the personal integrity of Dr. Shields and Miss Edith Rebman, secretary of the university board.

Dr. Shields hotly denied Callaway's statement, branding him "guilty of gross misrepresentation of facts."

Callaway, declared out of order by the chairman, Maximilian Schupp, of New York city, and told he might speak more at length later today, was given time to invite delegates to a meeting tonight at a local hotel where, he said, he would present Dr. Wayman's case.

The university trustees appointed Dr. Thomas T. Shields as chairman, and Oliver Van Osdell, and E. A. Roberts today as a committee of three to take charge of university affairs until the annual meeting June 11.

Hawaii Head

Here is President Hoover's first island gubernatorial appointee. Lawrence M. Judd of Honolulu was named to succeed Wallace R. Farrington as governor of Hawaii. Farrington, completing his second term, desires retirement. Judd is a Honolulu supervisor, a former territorial senate president and head of a large meat distributing firm.

T. Shields and Miss Edith Rebman are retained on the board of trustees. They unanimously endorsed the stand of President H. C. Wayman. The resolution, adopted last night, also recommends that fraternities be retained.

Governor Hammill and Mayor McVeigh of Des Moines both said trustees of the university would be given police protection should they return here for their scheduled meeting June 11. The trustees yesterday criticized the police department of the city for what they said was the lack of protection accorded them last Saturday when students bombarded them with eggs and stones.

BOBBED HAIR MAY KILL HIS ART

G. Boruchoff, the Russian artist who has received a certain distinction for his pictures in human hair, fears that the bobbed hair fashion may kill his art. He needs long strands for his work, and the supply of these is becoming shorter and shorter. At first glance Boruchoff's pictures are said to be indistinguishable from oil paintings. He blends the various shades of hair on his palette as an oil painter mixes his colors. His canvas is a piece of silk or linen cloth and his brush a true knitting needle. His method of weaving the hair in to the cloth, he says, is similar to that used in making the famous Gobelin tapestries. Boruchoff started producing his pictures at 10 years of age when apprenticed to a hairdresser, and while a war prisoner in Germany he spent his leisure in practice.

SOUTH CAROLINA IS "MARRY-LAND" FOR JUDGE SMITH

York Has Become Famous "Hitching-post" in Recent Years

York, S. C. — There was a time when this town was called Yorkville. The title was dropped some 14 years ago. And now exponents of change are considering still other names. They want to call it "Cupid's Corner" or "Gretchen Green" or "Marryville" or something of the sort. Here's why.

In this town of 5,000, there have been more than 5,000 marriage licenses issued and marriage ceremonies performed in the last two years. And that, York is confident, is a record.

It doesn't mean, of course, that everybody in York has been married twice in two years. It means what Remond is to matrimony, a famous "hitching post."

WHERE IT'S CHEAPER TO WED

There are two perfectly adequate reasons why about to be married lovers flock to York. One of them has to do with its geographical location, and South Carolina marriage laws. In the hard-headed dominion of North Carolina, just across the border, a license for wedded bliss costs in the neighborhood of $5, while medical examinations for two and other bothersome formalities are likely to run the total up to a week's pay check.

An auto ride and $2.50 is all that's necessary in South Carolina. What more natural than that Tar Heels should slip across the border to be tied up?

The other reason—and the reason for so many select York marriages—has to do with the convenience to other border towns—is Prostate Judge G. P. Smith, of York county.

Judge Smith is easily the champion of South Carolina. Look at the figures. He took office Jan. 1, 1927, and in the two years since he has issued 5,400 licenses. He has performed at least 90 per cent of those marriages himself, which gives him a yearly average of 2,300 couples. Federal statistics show York county running about a thousand ahead of its nearest South Carolina rival.

MATRIMONIAL TOURISTS

The fans of York county and Judge Smith have spread farther than merely the two Carolinas. Tourists headed south or north often turn aside to be married by the urbane judge.

He is urbane, chivalrous, kindly and sincere, a gentleman of the old South—a former state senator. His ceremonies are marked by dignity and decorum. From all walks of life they pour in, the men blushing and stammering a bit, the women nonchalant and carefully casual, to take their vows.

But not all of them get licenses. Despite the laxity of South Carolina marriage laws Judge Smith uses discretion. He refuses licenses to minors, or to couples obviously ill-fitted for each other.

And when Judge Smith is away, there is always his clerical secretary, Miss Bessie Wiley. She has wedded as many as 15 couples in one day which is believed to be a record for a woman.

LONeliest ISLAND GETS RADIO

For the first time in its dreary history Tristan da Cunha, the loneliest island in the world, is to hear the outside world. A radio receiving set, the gift of the editor of an African newspaper, is now on its way there, and when set up will put the island in touch with the outside world. There are no facilities on the island for charging batteries, the high tension supply to the set will be taken from a bank of 30 cells of the type used for domestic bell circuits, and the valve filaments will be heated by special cells. It is estimated that these should last for 12 months, and, as it is hoped that arrangements will be made for a special ship from Cape Town, South Africa, to call at least once a year, there should be no interruption of reception.

Belfast — The Ulster exchequer finished the fiscal year with a surplus of $94,478. There has been a similar result every year since the government was established in 1921.

22 OUTAGAMIE-CO BOYS SIGNED UP FOR TRAINING CAMP

Six More Boys Can Be Taken for Summer Course in Military Training

Wisconsin boys are again looking forward to Citizens Military Training camps at Fort Sheridan, Ill., Fort Snelling, Minn., and Camp McCoy, Sparta, Wis., and thus far the state quota of 1,250 probably will be filled by the end of the month, according to Raymond P. Dohr, chairman of the committee in charge of county enrollments. The county quota is 28 and thus far 22 youths have enrolled, according to Mr. Dohr.

State boys attending the 1928 C. M. T. Camps captured their full share of honors in the academic, citizenship, military and athletic contests.

Robert Kunitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kunitz of this city won third place in 100 yard dash and received a silver medal as member of the winning 800 yard relay team at Fort Sheridan last summer.

Lynn Warren Trankel of Bloomer was a member of the football team and won the Lawrence college scholarship at Fort Sheridan last summer. William Frasier and Clynon McKay, both of Rhineland, won much coveted positions as members of the Seventh Corps Area C. M. T. C. rifle team to compete at Camp Perry, O., with eight other Corps Area teams. Paul Host of La Crosse was one of the five best Red Course students and won gold medals for first place in the 100 yard dash and low hurdles, and was a member of the championship Wisconsin football team.

Ernest Merrill of Eau Claire was judged the most proficient all around student and won gold medals in the high jump and relay, and was a member of the both the championship football and basketball teams. Adolph Olson of Eau Claire was the best all around athlete having won first place in the horseshoe pitching, second in high hurdles, and also was a member of the football and basketball teams.

John Ruhoff, who enrolled from Wausau and now lives at Madison, won the Kiwanis club watch for being the best Basic course student in camp and a member of the football team. Russell Tornowski of Fall Creek was second in the broad jump, third in high jump, helped win the relay run and was a member of the football and basketball teams.

At Fort Sheridan, Roger Holz of Shawano won the Carroll college scholarship, Harry Reimeyer of Milwaukee, the Marquette university scholarship and Robert Miller of Berlin the Ripon college scholarship. Norbert Kleinknecht of Fond du Lac won a sweater for being the second best athlete in camp, and was a member of the Wisconsin basketball team which won the Interstate championship. Walter Kron of Milwaukee was the best White course, third year student while Leo Mack also of Milwaukee won first place in the 400 yard free style swimming race, helped to win the Interstate swim relay and was second in the 100 yard breast stroke swim. ## SENATE TENTATIVELY APPROVES PARK BILL

Madison — (P) — The Senate Wednesday gave preliminary approval to a bill levying a surtax for purchase of seven acres of land near Clam Falls, but there were indications that the real fight over the measure will come when it is considered for final passage.

This bill which has been before several legislatures and has twice been vetoed by governors was ordered to engrossment by a vote of 18 to 12. The only argument on behalf of the park was made by Sen. Casperson. No one spoke against it.

A surtax on all incomes in excess of $3,000 will be levied under provisions of the bill which calls for purchase of 1,520 acres of land in Polk county at a cost of not more than $200,000.

West discards a small Heart and Declarer establishes Diamonds by losing the next trick to East's Queen. East returns her partner's Clubs. South wins and cashes the two long Diamonds (having kept the Deuce in Dummy so as not to block the closed hand). Closed hand then leads a small Heart, dummy's King wins and the Hearts are run. (West's Heart discards made it evident that the Hearts should be finessed against East — but the finesse proved unnecessary.) Declarer wins four Hearts four Diamonds and two Clubs—ten tricks.

THE CORRECT PLAY

On the first play leading the Five of Clubs, East holding the Trey and Deuce, and dummy the Four. East could tell that West must have opened a four-card suit.

When West discarded on the second round of Diamonds, showing that he had held a singleton Diamond, East could mark West's hand as having consisted of three 4-card suits and a singleton. When West discarded a second Heart, East could count him for three Clubs, four Spades and two Hearts; and South for one Club and two Spades. In view of South's establishing Diamonds he probably had the best Club and, if so, leading Clubs might not save game, but as South has only two

Claims Coming Interest Of Women Is In Flowers

"The coming interest for women in flower gardening, flower clubs, and to develop their gardens so and flower shows," said Mrs. D. J. O'Connor, chairman of the Appleton Flower Show, in an interview. "The interest of women all over the United States is becoming more and more aroused to the great pleasure to be derived from working in one's own garden, and new flower clubs are springing up in every city in the country. In Chicago some of the best gardens in the city have been thrown open for the inspection of flower lovers, and on June 5 when the annual Chicago flower show opens the greatest part of the exhibit will consist of the display of whole gardens in various sections of the city."

PRIZES FLOWER SHOW

Mrs. O'Connor was very enthusiastic about the prospects for the first Appleton flower show to be held in Appleton and told of the plans for the exhibit of window boxes, shadow boxes, the miniature house lot laid out with trees, shrubbery and flowers. May is the month for sowing all the annual flowers outdoors. Seedlings of pansies, geraniums, and other plants should be transplanted, and geranium and other bedding plants should be set out. This is the time also for the planting of dahlias, lily, gladiolus, and all the other best summer-flowering bulbs. Flowers for cutting should be planted in the vegetable garden. When cutting the blossoms will not interfere with the beauty of the well planted garden. In the flower gar-

APPLETON MAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO NEW KONJOLA

Freed of Stomach Trouble After All Else Had Failed — Bried Treatment Did the Work

Wherever this new and totally different medicine, Konjola, is known and introduced it receives the praise and acclaim of countless men and women who found their first and only relief from ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels or from rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, through the use of this advanced medicine. Surprising as it may seem, Konjola is at the very summit of its remarkable powers in those obstinate and chronic cases that have defied and resisted all other medicines and treatments tried. Just what Konjola means to all who suffer and who would escape from pain and suffering, is being explained daily by the Konjola Man, who is at the Schlitz Brothers Drug Store, 114 West College Ave., Appleton. The Konjola Man is not in any way primarily to sell Konjola, but to help all sufferers. His is a mission of helpfulness: to point the glorious road to health. He will not make wild promises, sweeping claims, but will point out cases wherein Konjola was the first and only medicine that brought relief. Take, for instance, the experience of Mr. Jacob B. Welland, 1612 West Eighth St., Appleton, who with Konjola. Just a few days ago Mr. Welland said to the Konjola Man: "It is a pleasant duty to praise such a splendid medicine as Konjola. It surely worked wonders in my case and I hope that others will profit from the lesson my experience teaches. For sometime I suffered from a bad case of stomach trouble that refused to yield to any medicine or treatment. It was agony for me to eat a meal, for immediately afterward gas formed and indigestion pains came on me. Constipation that ever the strongest laxatives did not help, was the bane of my life. My liver was sluggish and caused my system to fill with bile. Dizzy spells and headaches were common. I was so discouraged that I did not know what to do. Indeed, the future looked anything but bright. "Then I began hearing and reading a great deal about Konjola and its amazing accomplishments. Could it be possible that this medicine would help me. I was afraid not, but it was worth the trial. I secured several bottles and to my utmost surprise and pleasure I immediately began to feel better. I hardly knew what to make of it. Obstinate as the ailments were Konjola went to the very source of them. It cleaned and invigorated my system, restored my digestion and improved my appetite. Then it regulated my liver and eliminated all the bile. Today I am well and happy again. The past and all the suffering seems like a bad dream. I can readily understand why Konjola is called the master medicine. "Is it not logical to believe that what Konjola has done for Mr. Welland, as well as for thousands of others, it will do for you — for everyone? Konjola merely asks the chance to make you well. "The Konjola Man is at the Schlitz Brothers Drug Store, 114 West College St., Appleton, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine."

AUTHORITY FINDS EIGHT FAULTS FOR TOLL ON HIGHWAYS

Motorist of 'Self-hypnotism' Type Should Lose License, He Holds

St. Louis—If amotorist becomes so entranced by the sight of a pretty girl on the sidewalk that he suddenly finds himself jammed headlong into another car or a lamppost, he has no right to drive an automobile, thinks L. D. Stephens, general manager of the Traffic Syndicate Bureau here and one of the foremost traffic authorities in America.

It is such diversion as this that induces what he terms "self-hypnotism"—a strange mental malady to which three per cent of the country's traffic accidents may be ascribed. The only remedy for this disease, Stephens believes, is withdrawal of the driver's license, provided there is a driver's license law in the state.

Stephens used to be a plumber here until one day he nearly lost his life at a railroad crossing. That interested him so in the effort to unravel traffic problems that he gave up plumbing and now travels about the country helping cities devise better systems of traffic.

TWO FAULTS—HALF TOLL

As a result of his studies, he finds there are eight fundamental causes for traffic accidents, one of which is "self-hypnotism." The other seven and the remedies he proposes for them, are:

1. Absentmindedness. This, in drivers of all classes, causes 24 per cent of all motor accidents. Remedy—use of signals directly in line of vision.

2. Ignorance. This includes those who have no knowledge of traffic conditions, made up for the most part of children and causes 23 per cent of all accidents. Remedy—education.

3. General obstructions, such as bad paving, narrow streets, ditches, bad corners. These cause 16 per cent of accidents. Remedy—correct engineering.

4. Reckless driving. Causes 14 per cent of the accidents. Remedy—heavy fines and penalties.

5. Physical handicaps, such as heart trouble, epilepsy, nervousness and similar failings. These bring 11 per cent of all traffic accidents. Remedy—refuse license.

6. Inexperience, including drivers with lack of driving sense and those with low mentality. Causes seven per cent of the accidents. Remedy—without license until qualified.

7. Diseases of the eye, such as color blindness and erratic vision. Causes two per cent of the accidents. Remedy—refuse license.

The cure for the greatest number

SCHNEIDER SEEKS EQUITABLE TARIFF FOR BADGER FARMERS

Wisconsin Congressmen Protest Schedules in Hawley Bill

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Seven members of the Wisconsin congressional delegation registered vigorous protest against the rates on farm products in the Hawley tariff bill last night.

The Wisconsin congressmen appeared before the Republican members of the ways and means committee in closed session to insist on higher rates than are provided in the bill for casein, coconut oil which enters into competition with dairy products as a substitute, potato meal, beef and veal, canned meats, whole milk, cream, skimmed milk, butter, cheese, dried eggs, honey, flaxseed, clover seed, onions, potatoes, rutabagas, hemp and for the transfer of sage and sage flour and hides and leather from the free list to the dutiable list.

At the same time, they protested against the new high rates proposed in the bill for cement, lumber, and other products largely used by farmers. The congressmen appearing before the committee were: Henry A. Cooper of Racine, E. J. Brown of Brown, Waukegan, Florian J. Lampert of Oshkosh, George Schneider of Appleton, Charles A. Kading of Watertown, John C. Schaf of Milwaukee and Merin Hull of Black River Falls.

RELIGION SLIGHTED

New York—Dr. Sarah M. Sturtevant and Dr. Ruth Strang of Teachers' College, Columbia, have found how the average high school girl spends her day. Fifty-nine minutes are spent in school, two hours in outside social activities, two and one-half hours in home study, one hour in school study, nine and one-half hours in sleep, 13 minutes for religion, one hour for exercise, one and one-half hours for eating. The remaining time is divided between amusements and home duties.

EVERYBODY SATISFIED

HILL: I heard you've quit golf. CHILL: Yes, I did it for the wife and caddies.—Judge.

of accidents, brought on by cause by the tendency to train the first three causes listed, Stephens points out to be education and proper traffic engineering. He sees a great falling off of the first child for the traffic of the city streets while he is still in school.

MARKED HIGHWAYS HELP

One of the most important endeavors in this direction is proper marking of highways. Moving or flashing electric signals on the side of the road, properly placed lights in the center, are effective. Marking of pedestrian crossings and auto lanes, as well as spelling out signs on the road directly in front of the approaching driver, also help reduce the traffic toll.

Stephens is especially interested in the operation of the modern three-light traffic signal at intersections. He gave up his plumbing business when he came across a device of this sort patented by a butcher of Oklahoma City. The butcher was J. A. Grogg, from whom Stephens bought the patent and went into the traffic light business.

Grogg has made more money out of his device than he would out of his butcher trade and Stephens isn't sorry he quit plumbing either.

LATIN AMERICA IS TO BE CHIEF TOPIC AT TRADE MEETING

Expect 2,000 Delegates at Baltimore Convention Next Week

Baltimore—(P)—Further development of the export trade with Latin America will be the chief topic to comfort the sixteenth annual convention of the National Foreign Trade council. This convention will be here April 17-19 and is expected to attract upwards of 2,000 delegates.

The meeting will mark the first assembly of local foreign trade councils, export managers' associations and similar groups. Steps will be taken toward national collaboration of these smaller organizations.

Merchandising sessions will be instituted and informal meetings will permit the presentation of economic problems confronting the exporter. One feature will be the demonstration of modern methods of international communication. Cable, telegraph, telephone, radio and wireless hook-ups will be arranged for actual demonstration before the delegates.

James A. Farrell, president, in welcoming delegates to the meeting says: "The foreign trade of the United States for 1928 showed continual development," he declares. "The value was more than $9,000,000,000. Manufactured products rose to 70 per cent of this total. Of the raw material, which comprises the other 30 per cent, cotton supplied two-thirds of the value. This development of exported manufactured goods is the outstanding feature of the year's trade."

20 MILLION OFFERED FOR BOSTON PAPER

But Publisher Tells Commission That It Was "Nine-tenths" Bluff

Washington—(AP)—Richard Grozier, editor and publisher of the Boston, Mass., Post testified today before the Federal Trade commission that a Boston advertising man who claimed to represent the power interest of Samuel Insull last February made an offer of $20,000,000 in cash to buy the Post.

Appearing in connection with the commission's inquiry into financial interests in newspapers by public power utilities, Grozier declared his managing editor, C. D. Carberry, in making a report on the bid, said the offer was "nine-tenths bluff." The publisher added he was the sole proprietor of the Post.

The offer, Grozier continued, was made by Charles O'Malley, at a conference Feb. 17, 1928, with Carberry, who made a report on the proposal to him. O'Malley is scheduled to appear before the commission tomorrow.

The Post publisher declined to read parts of Carberry's report, declaring "it was a reflection on my contemporaries."

SCOFFED AT OFFER

Grozier said the Post was not for sale and "we didn't consider O'Malley's offer seriously, as we thought he was talking through his hat."

In Carberry's report, which Grozier read, O'Malley was quoted as saying the Insull interests "already had purchased the Indianapolis News and other newspapers." O'Malley, he reported added, also asserted the power interests were trying to buy 50 or 60 newspapers and Carberry in his report said "the people simply won't stand for such a bold scheme."

In his report Carberry said O'Malley made the offer of $20,000,000 in cash and claimed he (O'Malley) "would put through the deal in a month."

Grozier also testified concerning two conferences between himself and one of his associates, I. B. Wingate, Sunday editor of the Post, with Chas. Cox, former governor of Massachusetts, concerning purchases of the Post and other Boston newspapers. Both conferences with Cox, he added, occurred in the fall of last year. Cox also is scheduled to appear before the commission.

On Oct. 15, 1928, Grozier said, he and Wingate talked to Cox concerning "long apparent rumors that the Boston Herald and the Traveler were to be sold" and also a report that Governor Cox was to be in charge of the two newspapers.

Later, Grozier continued, he sent Wingate to see Cox to inform him "that if the reports were true the Post would be interested in making an offer for the Traveler. At a conference in December Grozier said Cox asked Wingate about reports that some persons were trying to buy the Post and told the Sunday Post editor "that his interests wanted to be in on it."

Grozier said Cox in his conversation declared that "rather than have the paper (Post) go to outsiders if it were to be sold they would be interested."

Asked if the Insull interests owned any Boston newspapers, the witness said to his knowledge they did not but he had "heard a lot of rumors" to this effect. He repeated he knew nothing more than "common street gossip" which he indicated tended to show such ownership.

Frank D. Comerford of Boston vice president and director of the International Paper and Power company, was the next witness. He said he became president of the New England Power Association in November, 1927.

YOUTH CAME NEAR WRECKING BLIMP AT ITS TAKEOFF

Friedrichshafen, Germany—(AP)—Passengers and members of the crew aboard the Graf Zeppelin, speeding its way to America today, little realized that their start was nearly prevented by the folly of a would-be stow-away.

A 22-year-old tailor named Lenker, from Kulmbach, conceived the foolhardy idea of hanging on to the hangar roof and trying to jump on to the Zeppelin as the airship was taken out of the hangar. Zeppelin officials said that had he not been spotted by workmen he probably would have lost his own life and so damaged the dirigible it might have taken weeks to repair it.

It was believed he thought the canvas covering of the dirigible was metal and that he could jump to it and pick his way to a shaft leading straight from top to bottom. His jump probably would have torn the fabric and punctured one of the gas compartments.

The Zeppelin company will prosecute him and attempt to secure conviction and a two-year sentence for endangering transport and human life. The company also will demand maximum punishment for other attempted stowaways as searching for them every time a flight impends has become irksome.

BRITISH SEND THEIR SYMPATHY TO OHIO

Londoners Deeply Stirred by Tragedy at Cleveland Hospital

Cleveland, Ohio—(AP)—Shocked by the Cleveland clinic disaster yesterday, the editor of the London, England, Sketch, and editor of the London, England, Daily News telephoned newspapermen here for additional information.

T. A. Robertson, managing editor of the Cleveland News, today talked for 25 minutes to the editor of the London Daily News, 4,000 miles away.

The British spoke the same language but they had a hard time understanding the American newspaperman, especially after his words had trickled all the way across the Atlantic ocean.

But the Londoners finally got the details they were after. "Horrible," said one of the London editors. "Shocking," said the other.

Other condolences were sent by Britons. Talking to John D. Marshall, mayor of Cleveland, by telephone, the lord mayor of London asked him to "please convey to the sufferers the condolences of London and all England. We only wish we could do something to aid you."

The editor of the London Daily Sketch told Mayor Marshall, "The whole world is deeply concerned with your misfortune."

DETECTIVE KILLED WHILE ATTEMPTING TO NAB KIDNAPERS

Disguises Self as Agent of Victim in Order to Trap Gangmen

Chicago—(AP)—A police detective was fatally wounded late yesterday by a gang of extortionists who he had attempted to trap by disguising himself as the agent of their intended victim.

Ray Martin, the detective, was shot down by the men as he approached their automobile. The extortionists escaped at high speed under a spray of bullets fired by policemen hidden nearby.

Immediately after the shooting, police ordered the arrest of Martin O'Leary, west side gang character, and the Kohns, brothers, Carlos and Ernesto, who have frequently been described by police as bootleggers and gangsters.

Martin had disguised himself as Moses Blumenthal, brother of Philip Blumenthal, reputed millionaire bootlegger who recently was kidnapped and released upon the payment of $15,000 and his promise to pay $35,000 more by June 1. Moses Blumenthal was ordered yesterday by the kidnapers to pay more money immediately.

Michael Meyer, partner of Philip Blumenthal, notified police. Martin and other officers stationed themselves in Moses Blumenthal's home and intercepted a telephone message from the kidnapers, intended for Blumenthal, directing him to meet them at a west side street intersection.

Donning his disguise, Martin, who superficially resembled Blumenthal, left to keep the rendezvous, trailed by police riding in a rented automobile. Following directions after policemen had stationed themselves in weeds in vacant lots nearby, Martin walked down the street until he came to an automobile containing four men, parked at the curb.

As he approached the car, the men, supposedly seeing through Martin's disguise, opened fire and sped away. Martin died an hour later after declaring he had not recognized his assassins.

The condition of Chester De Noble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph De Noble, 1930 S. Oneida-st., was encouraging Thursday morning, according to his physician, who stated that unless complications developed he will recover. De Noble had his left leg so badly injured in an automobile accident Tuesday evening that it was necessary to amputate it below the knee. He also suffered a fractured right leg, lacerated nose and other facial and body bruises. De Noble was standing on the running board of a roadster driven by John Masch of Shawano, when it collided with a machine driven by Wallace Satorius, Black Creek, on Highway 158 east of Nichols.

JURY HEARS WIDOW TELL HOW HUSBAND HAD TRIED SUICIDE

Continue Investigation Into Death of John Haubrick at Waupaca

After hearing Mrs. John Haubrick, widow of the man whose body was found early Wednesday morning in a road at Harrington corners, Waupaca, testify that her husband was of a morose nature and once before had attempted suicide, a jury investigating the death adjourned Wednesday afternoon pending further investigation.

The inquest was held before S. W. Johnson, a justice of the peace, and the adjournment was to an indefinite date. Testimony of Mrs. Haubrick, Dr. A. M. Christofferson, who viewed the body, and of Henry Zillmer, brother of the widow, was heard. Haubrick was 27 years of age. Haubrick's body was found by a party of Split Rock fishermen and they notified Sheriff Arthur Stenbock who had it conveyed to an undertaker at Waupaca. The body was found a short distance from an automobile which Haubrick had purchased last spring but which was without license plates. The only identification mark was an insurance policy issued to John Haubrick and working on this case relatives were located. A note had been blown through his throat by a shell from a 12-gauge shotgun which he still held in his hand.

FIND BLOODSTAINS

The car contained a hat and cap of different sizes and a new shotgun, still in the wrapper put on by the merchant. It has not been learned who owned the new gun nor the one which did not fit Haubrick. It also said that bloodstains were found on the running board, hood and the automobile, although it was quite a distance from the body. The car had been standing along the road all Tuesday and Tuesday night. The nearest resident is something less than a half mile from where the body was found and no one heard the report of a gun. Mrs. Haubrick told the jury that she and her husband had had financial and family difficulties in the last few weeks and she said that Haubrick had taken Paris green last winter in a suicide attempt. He was quite ill for a time. Her brother corroborated her testimony and said Haubrick was of a morose disposition, given to making suicide threats. Examination of the body disclosed powder burns about the neck indicating that the gun had been fired at

FARM GROUP CONSIDERS APPLICANTS FOR JOB

The county agricultural committee will meet Saturday morning at the courthouse to interview applicants for the position of county home economics agent. The county board last November provided funds, at the request of the county rural women's clubs, to engage a leader but the committee has taken no action up to this time because there were no applicants available. A number of prospective leaders have been suggested by the state agricultural board and these will be interviewed by the committee.

close range. A large jagged hole was torn through the throat and Haubrick's body was in a pool of blood when it was found. Dr. Christofferson intimated to the jury that he believed Haubrick had ended his own life.

Mrs. Haubrick told the jury that the insurance policy which was found in Haubrick's pocket was inoperative as it had been cancelled recently at her urging because of difficulty of meeting payments. She has two children, one three years old and the other four months. She had been living with her parents, on County Trunk A between Manawa and Marion, for some time.

Up until about three weeks ago Haubrick had been living at Big Falls. Recently he entered the employ of John Dretke, near Symco, remaining until about a week ago when he left to join his wife at the Zillmer home.

COLLEGE STUDENTS PRODUCE FILM TO SHOW "REAL FACTS"

Picture Will Not Be "Jazzed

of college life which portray the underdog's existence as one round of wild parties and questionable escapades following closely upon another have met the fire of college students right here where films are made. As a result students of the University of Los Angeles, which in fact is located in Hollywood, are producing a picture showing college life as it really is.

U. C. L. A. young folk have turned actors, directors and technicians and will spend a fortnight making a film reflecting real campus life. All phases of student activities are to be recorded, but none are to be "jazzed up" for the sake of sensationalism. There will be no flapper co-ed vamping a professor, for that rarely happens in real college life, student spokesmen say, despite recent testimony to the contrary.

The "grinds" of the university will be seen in their favorite bent position, and the social side of college life will, according to plans, be depicted faithfully and naturally. Realism is to be striven for throughout.

Costs of the films up to $800 have been pledged by a friend of the university. The student producers think that will be enough to cover the

ASKS HALF-MILLION AS RESULT OF NEWS STORY

Richmond, Va.—(AP)—John Stewart Bryan, Richmond publisher, has filed suit for $500,000 against S. L. Slover, Charles P. Hasbrook, the Times Dispatch Publishing company, and Basil Manly.

No declaration was filed with the suit but it was authoritatively learned that the suit was the outgrowth of an article appearing in the Richmond Times Dispatch under Basil's name, commenting on the Federal Trade commission inquiry into the financing of newspaper purchases by the International Paper and Power company.

Mr. Bryan is one of the owners of the Bryan-Thompson Newspapers, Inc., publishing the Chicago Journal, the Tampa, Fla., Tribune and the Greensboro, N. C. Record. He is also publisher of the Richmond News Leader.

bill. If true, that will set something of a record for parsimony picture making and Hollywood executives might show an interest in the cost sheets.

The film, when completed, is to be shown in high schools in Southern California to counteract, among parents and youths impressions of student life given through recent pictures released by the film capital studios. If the picture is given the hoped for reception, it may be similarly distributed in other parts of the country to set the public generally right in regard to college life.

LONG FLIGHT WITH DIESEL ENGINE IS BIG ACHIEVEMENT

Feat May Mark Revolutionary Development in Field of Aviation

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON

Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press

was commented on here today by technical experts as one of the most momentous and possible revolutionary achievements of modern aviation.

Coming at the moment when great aggregations of capital are massing behind aviation and railroads are competing for advantageous hook-ups with air lines, it gives a sudden sharp spread to that remaining critical factor of pay load and turns the scales toward an assured economic position for the aircraft industry—manufacturing and carrying.

Several months ago, Colonel Charles Lindbergh told this correspondent that in his opinion the Diesel engine would soon take the air and that it would be an event of tremendous importance. Two years ago, just before his flight to France, Commander Byrd told the writer that the one great technical conquest remaining for aviation was the Diesel engine. Continuously since then, the best engineering minds in Europe and America have been at work on the problem.

Here it is, with the oil burning trip of six hours and fifty minutes from Detroit costing only $4.36 for fuel, as against $25 which would have been spent for gasoline. With a national daily flying mileage of about 40,000 miles and this average rapidly increasing, and with transcontinental air lines already at the edge of the dividend era, this sudden sweeping cut of four-fifths in fuel cost is a big story.

DEVELOPING ENGINES

In several American laboratories, diesel engines designed for airplanes have been developed. While details of the engine used in the flight from Detroit have not been made public, it is known that, other experiments have scaled the weight of an air Diesel down to slightly less than two pounds per horsepower. Diesel engines already have been successfully used for both automobile and railroad transportation, the former in London, as reported by the Royal Automobile club and the latter in Russia. There are numerous prophecies from credible sources that it will rapidly invade the automobile industry. Its use in London has been confined to trucks.

One detail which greatly interests the oil industry is the fact that the Diesel may use lower grades of fuel, which less requirements for "cracking" and other expensive and complicated operations. A high compression engine, it has no knock and will use almost any kind of fuel from powdered coal to animal or vegetable fats. Heavy mineral oils, however, are the only commercially practicable fuel, for the present.

One of the most important considerations of the use of the Diesel in the air is that it virtually does away with the fire hazard. In the safety researches of the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation and other individuals and organizations, the fire danger has been well to the front. Obviously, this passes with the burning of low grade furnace oil.

ASSEMBLY PUTS O. K. ON STATE EDUCATION BOARD

Propose Coordination of Governing Bodies of State Schools

Madison—(AP)—Wisconsin may have a board of education coordinating the work of the various boards of regents and governing bodies of state institutions, if the assembly continues to approve the Miller bill to that effect.

It was engrossed Monday by 58 to 10 votes, and has only to pass a few more barriers before it goes to the senate.

The first approval vote followed as address by Assemblyman E. C. Smith, who the endorsing the proposal. He said he considered no other bill in this session of the legislature more important.

Considering the amounts of money involved, he said, the education work of the state might well be directed by a board as the highway department and charitable and penal institutions.

Requests for the university biennium financing total $12,400,000 and for the normals, $5,100,000, brings the total requests for these and other state educational works to over $21,600,000, Smith said.

"Surely this sum would indicate the importance of unification and coordination of our education demands and business," he continued.

SCOLDS SENATORS

Preceding the assembly gave unanimous consent to withdrawal from its consideration of the bill which would have asked the governor to appoint one additional director on each domestic mutual life insurance company.

Assemblyman Ed. Hlilker, Racine, made a statement on the floor criticizing the action of former state Senator Harry Southoff, Madison, in submitting a minority report on the state trust fund investment interim investigation.

He said Senator Southoff attended but two meetings of the investigation committee, one for its organization "and about five minutes of another."

"The idea of him then coming in with a minority report on this important subject, not knowing a thing about the committee work," Mr. Hlilker explained.

Assemblyman J. D. Miller of Dunn co who concurred with the Dane co former senator on the minority report, answered by saying Senator Southoff had "kept in close touch with the work of the committee," although I guess he didn't attend but two or three sessions."

ADVANCE FISH BILL

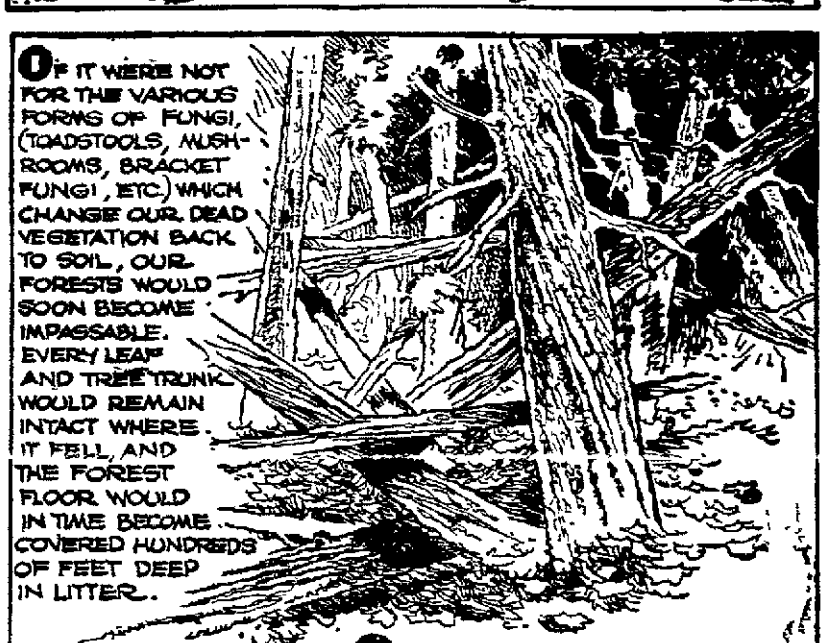

The minority report opposed a unified trust funds board, saying that the funds are not mismanaged.

The assembly denied Assemblyman Frederick W. Gords motion for reconsideration of the vote that killed the Groschmidt bar admission bill. It would have allowed university of Wisconsin to present their graduates for admission to the Wisconsin law practice by diploma instead of examination. It was killed several days ago.

The Maunthe bill for acquisition by the conservation commission of an area of several hundred acres in the Kettle Moraine region, for a state park, was advanced to engrossment.

SIX DOCTORS DIE IN CLINIC BLAST

Co-founder of Destroyed Hospital Dies from Gas Poisoning

Cleveland—(AP)—The toll of lives in the Cleveland clinic explosion was felt deeply today in the loss of six staff physicians at the institution, all of them leaders in their fields.

Dr. C. E. Locke, brain specialist, lead 14 patients and a nurse to the top floor of the building and fought off the noxious fumes. Firemen rescued him through a hole in the roof and he was revived, but the deadly gas later had its way.

Dr. John Phillips, co-founder with Dr. George W. Crile of the clinic, worked feverishly among the patients and finally was forced to leap from a third floor window. He walked some distance to his home afterward, but soon collapsed. Administration of oxygen failed and Dr. Crile performed a blood transfusion. This too, was unable to stop the course of the poison through his blood and he died.

Dr. Harry Anison was another who lost his life. Dr. John Corbello and Dr. Roy A. Brintnall and Dr. C.

FOOT OF SNOW FALLS IN UPPER MICHIGAN

St. Ignace, Mich.—(AP)—Old Man, an unexpected and uninvited guest, came back to the upper Michigan country in full regalia Wednesday night and today a foot of snow covered the ground.

Too early did the residents of this upper Michigan city bid adieu to snow and cold. An all night storm that attained the proportions of a blizzard descended with mid winter fury dispelling for the moment all thoughts of spring.

The steamer Henry C. Frick, up-bound, was reported to have grounded in the lower St. Marys river near Saults' Encampment early today. The reports said a tug later succeeded in pulling it off a mud bank.

This morning the storm had vanished in the face of a warm sun and the snow was expected to melt within 48 hours. The storm began with sleet and a northeast wind while the temperature fell rapidly. The Eagle Harbor coast guard said the wind velocity exceeded 50 miles an hour on Lake Superior, churning the waters into a mass of white caps and endangering navigation.

S. Hunter were caught with their patients and were killed. Other doctors there had narrow escapes.

WIFE SLAYER NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

La Crosse Man Faces Murder Charge at Beaver Dam if He Recovers

Beaver Dam—(AP)—Stanley Miles, 25, today was in a hospital here hovering between death and a first degree murder charge for the fatal shooting of his estranged wife, Dorothy, Wednesday.

A warrant charging Miles with first degree murder was issued Wednesday evening while he lay in the hospital under guard, the victim of a self-inflicted bullet wound. Physicians said he would probably recover.

District Attorney John A. Thiel reported that Miles had made no statement except that he was sorry he shot and killed his wife. A coroner's jury has been drawn and an inquest will be held Saturday.

Miles, a resident of LaCrosse, came here two days ago with what police believe was an express purpose to kill his wife. Letters written to a brother which were found in his pocket detailed a plan whereby he would kill his estranged wife. Early Wednesday he walked into a summer shed where his wife was wash-

JESSE JAMES GETS INTO TROUBLE WHEN HE BAGS "WOLF" CUB

Dodgeville—(AP)—Jesse James, not the Jesse that robbed trains for a living and adventure, but just plain Jesse James of Joesdale, is at odds with the law because his opinion on wolves jars with that of authorities.

Jesse declares he knows a wolf whelp when he sees one. On April 27 he captured one and presented it to the county officials for the customary $4 bounty. He was refused the bounty and as an added slap charged with attempting to obtain money under these pretenses. The whelp, said authorities, was not a whelp, just a plain old dog pup.

Mr. James, however, was undaunted. He sent the animal to the conservation commission at Madison. There it also was pronounced a dog pup. The warrant against James was then issued, presenting ing clothes, shot her twice and then turned the pistol on himself.

Miss Miles, accompanied by her two children, came to live with her foster mother here after six years of married life in LaCrosse. At the time of the shooting she was suing for divorce.

53 WILL WRITE EXAMS FOR POSTOFFICE JOBS

Fifty-three applicants for postoffice clerks or carriers at the Appleton postoffice will write civil service examinations at the senior high school Saturday morning under supervision of J. J. Frank, secretary of the local board of civil service examiners. The group will write in two sections. This is the largest group ever needed here. Several additions will be made to the local postal force from the applicants who make the best grades in the tests.

dogs for a bounty was simply fraud, no less, exclaimed the authorities.

Meanwhile Henry R. Carter, Jesse's father-in-law, went out in the fields and shot a real, bona fide wolf and in its den were found six whelps. If the whelps aren't whelps as both Carter and James insist they are, District Attorney C. H. Knudson said he would prosecute the case.

REVIVE EVENING TALK SESSIONS AMONG FARMERS

Agent of Adams-co Planning Series of Twilight Meetings Next Summer

BY W. F. WINSEY
"Do you remember, when the day's work was done, how you used to slip away to some neighbor's to spend the long summer evening?" Inquires K. L. Hatch, of the Agricultural Extension Service, Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Taking it for granted that you do, he continues: "You sat there in the twilight and visited and smoked and told stories, while the bull frogs croaked and the whippoorwills whistled their evening songs, until your eyelids grew heavy, then you went home and to bed."

"Up in Adams-co. they have revived this ancient custom. Hugo Murray, the big, genial, good-natured county agent, has organized a group of twilight meetings. After supper is eaten, the cows are milked and the horses bedded down for the night, the neighbors gather in groups of twenty or thirty or more at the home of some one of them. They call such a gathering "a twilight meeting" for there in the twilight, for an hour or two, they pass a profitable hour. As the sun touches the horizon these farmers proceed in small groups to somebody's barn or a neighbor's orchard or out to a back field where some interesting test is in progress. Here they sit around and smoke and talk it over or wander over the field till shadows fall and darkness draws the curtain of night."

"Adams-co. has no limestone bluffs or other outcrops of lime rock. Lime for the soil in this region had been hard to get until someone discovered a white, chalky substance on the bottom of one of the shallow lakes in this section. Curiosity was aroused. "What is this stuff?" was the general inquiry. The farmer found it to be marl. But what is marl? Nothing more than the shells of mussels, snails, oysters and clams. But how did this marl get there? Many years ago before the lakes filled up, the marl accumulated."

MARL BREAKS EASILY
And marl is exactly the same chemical substance as limestone. But instead of it being hard rock, it is soft and pliable and easily broken up. It is just as good for the land as ground limestone and has exactly the same effect in sweetening the soil."

"Adams-co. farmers learned from the county agent that their soil was sour and because it was sour it would not grow alfalfa and sweet clover, so badly needed for feed in that section. Limestone must be used to sweeten the soil, but ground limestone was too hard to get and cost quite a bit too. Why not try marl, just dig it out of the lakes and spread it on the land, was the suggestion. "Good, come on boys, lets try it." And they did. Now what is going on back there in the field? What are all those men doing? Has some one lost his pocketbook? Are they hunting for it?"

"No nothing has been lost but something has been found, and that something brings joy to those farmers. It is for them a veritable discovery of gold. "White Gold," it might be called. They have discovered that marl, spread freely over the land, will make alfalfa grow, and oh, how their cows hunger for alfalfa and oh, how the milk does fill the pail when alfalfa is fed."

"These farmers learn all about these things at their twilight meetings and what's more the proof is before their eyes."

"Or it may be instead that they have been out in a potato field where fertilizer has been used, or over there in the hen house where the chickens are fed from mash hoppers."

"Wherever it is, whatever it is, County Agent Murray is sure to be there with his lesson to be drawn from the things than can be seen there in the twilight."

PREDICT FURTHER WHEAT DECLINE

Increase in Rye and Hay Is Seen, However, by Agriculturists

Madison (P)—In the first crop report of the season issued by the crop reporting service of the United States and Wisconsin departments of agriculture, an increase in rye and hay and a further decline in winter wheat are predicted.

According to the report, the production of rye in Wisconsin is forecasted at 3,461,000 bushels this year as compared with 2,171,000 bushels produced in 1928. A year ago an extremely unfavorable winter and spring killed a large part of the rye acreage, while this year there was virtually no loss. Winter wheat likewise has come through in fine condition this year, but the acreage is much smaller than a year ago, the service says.

According to crop reporters in all parts of the state, the condition of hay meadows this spring is much above average, practically all clover fields having survived the winter. For the state as a whole, the reporters indicate a hay condition of 94 per cent. of normal as compared with 73 per cent. May 1 a year ago. The hay carry-over in the state is quite small being estimated at 500,000 tons as compared with 838,000 on May 1 last year and 514,000 tons two years ago.

Pasture conditions, as with hay, are satisfactory, though cold weather has delayed growth. The fact that clovers are generally good gives promise of an abundance of pasture this year.

FAMOUS BULL IS SOLD BY COUNTY FARMER TO STATE

O. Mossholder and Sons Disposes of Holstein to Board of Control

BY W. F. WINSEY
Summit Sadie Canary Vale, the purebred Holstein bull recently sold by O. Mossholder and Sons to the State Board of Control for use in one of the state institution herds, was bred by Gustav Pabst, veteran Holstein breeder of Dousman.

The bull first attracted the attention of Holstein breeders of Outagamie-co at bull sale in Milwaukee to which Pabst had consigned a number of bulls. When the breeders were bidding on Summit Sadie Canary Vale, the bidding was interrupted by a commotion on one side of the sale platform during which a man in excitement tumbled head over heels from the platform. Before the disturbance William Rohan, a Holstein breeder of Kaukauna, had bid $350 on the bull. As the auctioneer could get no farther bids under the conditions the bull was sold to Rohan at his bid. The price should have been at least four times that amount.

The Pabst people took exception to the sale, tried to convince Rohan that he had not bought the bull and the auctioneer that he did not wait for bids. Rohan countered with the statement that he had bought the bull regularly and the auctioneer that he did not sell the bull until the crowd had finished bidding. The upshot of the controversy was that Rohan was given possession of the bull and that he shipped it to his farm in Kaukauna.

After owning the bull for a few years Rohan sold it to A. O. Tillman, Appleton. Later Tillman sold the animal to C. C. Curtis, Appleton, and still later Curtis transferred the bull to O. Mossholder and Sons. The Mossholders have had the bull two years and have a number of fine looking calves. The bull will remain in the local stables till August.

DAM HELD RECORD
A world's record, at the time, was made by Elm Court Canary Johanna 2nd, the dam of the Mossholder bull at four and one-half years of age. Her record was 847.50 pounds of butter from 21,400 pounds of milk. The sire of Summit Sadie Vale was

Sold to State Board

Summit Sadie Vale Canary Vale, Holstein sire recently sold to the State Board of Control by O. Mossholder and Sons, Appleton. This animal was bred by Gustav Pabst, Dousman, Wis., and his dam and grand-dam were former world record cows.

King Pontiac Sadie Vale. The dam of the latter animal produced 34 pounds of butter in seven days.

Orpington Bess Pontiac, a daughter of Netherlands De Kol 2nd, is one of the finest looking, largest, and best cows in the Mossholder herd. The production record of the latter cow is 1,054 pounds of butter from 22,474 pounds of milk. Netherlands De Kol 2nd was the first cow on a farm in Outagamie county of any breed to produce 1,000 pounds of butter or over in test. She was the foundation cow of the Mossholder herd. She left a number of daughters and granddaughters in the Mossholder herd.

The entire effort of the Mossholders in breeding cattle is directed toward getting more and more milk. They have faith in Holstein cattle and are positive that the business of the purebred breeders will improve from this time on.

They are now milking twelve cows and the reason that they want more and more milk from each cow is that they are making cheese and cannot begin to meet the demand of their private customers scattered over the United States.

The source of the demand for their cheese is a baited hook in the form of signboard that they have suspended on the roadside. The bait that tourists grab on passing is "Golden Cream Cheese." The hook that catches them is the quality of the cheese. When the tourist asks what kind of cheese a sample is, Mr. Mossholder replies: "Try it and then name it yourself." After reaching their homes however distant these tourists repeat their orders regularly for cheese. Orders for cheese are coming from as far distant as Chicago Heights, Detroit and Kansas City. The repetitions of orders are very satisfactory to the Mossholders.

WHEAT PROBLEMS NOT RESPONDING TO NEW REMEDIES

Dull Prospects Seen for Market Response as Crop Starts to Move

BY OWEN L. SCOTT
Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Chicago—While another tremendous winter wheat crop approaches maturity, the problems it raises are not responding to the treatment applied to them.
Within three weeks the first of a 600,000,000 bushel crop is expected to start to market from Texas.
Despite rather heroic steps taken to prepare a favorable reception, the prospects for a satisfactory market response are not considered bright.
Freight rates, presumably a result of the administration have been reduced approximately seven cents a bushel on wheat and proportionately on flour. This step is in effective operation as a move to clear the way for the forthcoming crop. Yet it has been reflected almost not at all in grain prices. The burdensome carry-over of old wheat, amounting to approximately 200-000,000 bushels continues to move slowly to market, with foreign buyers hesitant, and foreign competitors more than meeting the cut.
Tariff changes proposed are not what the farm organizations sought.
President Hoover's executive order advancing duties on flax-seed, milk and cream has met in part the farmer demand. But high protein wheat is not granted the protection asked by the new tariff bill. A three cents a pound duty on beet likewise does not satisfy the cattle interests. The cattle industry also feels slighted because they were not allowed a duty on hides, which have slumped in price from 20 cents to around 10 cents during the past year.

FIGHT DIDN'T HELP
The squabble between the house and the senate over the character of farm relief proposed has not served to stimulate the speculation which might result in improved grain prices.

The drastic slump in wheat, which carried prices off nearly to the $1 level, occurred with almost no speculative opposition. This crash, so the story in the trade goes, affected principally a small group of eastern-ers—supposedly affiliated with Tammany—who had counted on the debenture plan of farm relief to stimulate buying.

But the prospect of relief thrilled neither the farmers nor the speculators. Many believe that the reason for this lack of speculative interest is to be found in the Wall Street activity which has drained credit for speculation to the east. Grain markets have been almost without trading interest for the past two or three years. Interest has been so slight that the Chicago Board of Trade has turned to stock speculation as a means of enhancing the value of its memberships.

The last few days have seen a slight rebound from the extremely low prices for wheat. The problem now is to increase this gain at least twenty cents if the winter wheat farmer is to receive an adequate return on the crop about to go to market. So far the treatment proposed have been effective. The one holding the greatest promise is that of continued dry weather in the Canadian west and in the Argentine.

SEEDING IN MONTANA 60 PER CENT FINISHED

Helena, Mont. — Seeding of farm crops in Montana is probably about sixty per cent completed. Field work progressed between storms and under adverse weather conditions.
Of sections where production of spring wheat is of consequence, north central Montana seems to be suffering the greatest delay in seeding due to weather conditions.

RECOMMEND U. W. BIENNIAL BUDGET OF $10,382,216

Proposed Appropriation Is Less Than Amount Asked for by President

Madison — (AP) — The appropriation for the University of Wisconsin as recommended by the joint finance committee of the legislature will be $10,382,216, members of the committee have revealed.

Important provisions of the bill, which is being drafted this week and may be ready for presentation early next week, includes an increase of about $250,000 in teachers' salaries and a doubling of tuition fees for both non resident and Wisconsin students in the state school.

The major bill, as usual, will be for operating expenses only, and the committee may produce a separate measure for between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000 for new buildings on the campus.

All these amounts are for the 1929-30 biennium.

During the biennium now closing the university received an appropriation of $9,567,655.69 for operations and maintenance, thus presenting an increase of $814,561 by terms of this bill, over last session's appropriation.

The drain on the state's general fund for the university will not be increased, under the committee plan, for the measure stipulates the amount to be taken from that fund for the university shall be the same as that taken for it during the present biennium.

The increase of $814,561 will be derived:

Through increased tuition fees. The university received $1,258,775.53 from this source during the present two year period. It is estimated that during the coming biennium it will take in $1,935,545 through this source. This would be an increase of $676,770.

Through increased mill tax revenue. There is regularly levied a three-eighths mill tax on property for support of the university. During the closing biennium there was raised through this source, $4,309,288.75. Because of increased valuation of property, the finance committee anticipates that this amount will be raised to $4,475,625, an increase of $166,337.

Dr. Glenn Frank, university president, and J. D. Phillips, University business manager, presented biennial budget to the committee, asked $10,560,121.

The joint legislative finance committee appointed Senators Carroll and Boldt and Assemblyman LaBar, Eingham and Brunette, as a sub-committee to investigate needs of the university.

A majority of the sub-committee favored allowing $10,163,771 which is $218,350 less than the university asked and Senator J. H. Carroll, of Glidden, veteran finance committee member, was credited with the suggestion that a compromise figure of $10,382,216 be agreed upon. The plan carried.

The university appropriation bill specifically states that the tuition

Flashes of Life

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Washington — The annual saving to the American people because of prohibition is placed at $8,000,000,000 by Deets Pickett, secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals; half of it is direct liquor cost, half indirect saving due to increased efficiency.

Philadelphia — In the words of Mabel Walker Willebrandt, women who set standards of social entertaining without liquor are rendering that sportsmanly allegiance to the president that true patriotism dictates. She so wrote to the conference of the Republican Women of Pennsylvania.

Mexico City — As an example in following the anti-liquor policy of President Portes Gil, army officers have tendered a dry banquet to General Joaquin Amaro on the occasion of his return from the United States after an operation. The toasts were in mineral water.

New Port, England — Maybe he'll give some to Ambassador Davies Stanley Baldwin has enough pipes to last him if he lives to be as old as Methuselah. He so informed a campaign audience here. He has received two dozen more as gifts in the last few days.

Princeton, N. J. — Seniors at Princeton have voted that the member of the class most likely to succeed is John D. Rockefeller, 3d.

Windsor, England — A radio set has been installed in King George's private suite.

Fees for students shall be raised but exact amounts fixed by the bill were not made public committee said "they are just about doubled."

At present, out-of-state students pay a fee of slightly more than $60 each semester. Wisconsin students now pay a fee of $12.50 per semester when enrolling for ordinary courses.

No definite figures has been agreed upon by the finance committee for new university buildings. Members of the body are at variance between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. It is anticipated that a compromise will be effected in this respect, too, and that the figure of $1,200,000 will be agreed upon. The university received about that amount for buildings during the closing two year period.

The joint finance committee is now drafting the appropriation bill for the charitable and penal institutions, after which it will take up a similar measure for the normal schools. When these major appropriation bills have cleared the two houses and have been acted upon by the governor, other legislation is generally rushed to completion for final adjournment.

MACHINE POWER IS U. S. NEED AGAINST WAGE COMPETITION

Mechanical Equipment Only Means of Combating Foreign Trade

BY J. C. COYLE

Copyright, 1929, By Cons. Press

New York — Public interest was directed Wednesday to the report of the committee on recent economic changes in the United States, headed by President Hoover, stressing the necessity of maintaining an "economic balance" to preserve the high standards of American life. Commenting on technical aspects of the report, leading engineers here declare that the only sure protection against the competition of European paper labor is American engineering efficiency with foreign trade assets that as long as we can furnish each American with 3 to 3 1/2 horsepower of mechanical equipment, the manufacturers and producers of this country are safe from foreign competition, no matter how far the wage scale is reduced in foreign countries.

Furnishing this power behind the army of American workmen and strengthening their efficiency by mechanical means, therefore, is the main problem which now presents itself to the industrialists of this country. The engineers emphasize the need of efficiency in distributing and transforming energy. Manpower is not enough to meet foreign competition; but backed by the energy developed by mechanical means from the natural resources of this country, it seems likely to be predominant for years.

Better supplies of heat and power are hence the major problem of the American industry today. Heat supplies have always been recognized as a public necessity for comfortable living in our climate. But the use of heat for domestic purposes has shown little increase in proportion to population as compared with power.

There has been a large increase in the use of heat for industrial purposes independent of such fuel as is required for power generation. There has, however, been a very considerable rise in the cost of heat without a corresponding rise in the cost of power.

Power supplies have been made available at but little rise in cost in proportion to the cost of fuel. This is undoubtedly a result of outstanding engineering. But there is real necessity, according to Dr. Charles E. Lucke, head of the mechanical engineering department of Columbia university, for discovering ways for reducing the cost of power at the point of use as a means of increasing use and reduction in the cost of heat. Cheaper heat and cheaper power, according to Dr. Lucke, today are national problems; but the solution of the difficulties is an engineering problem. Many thousands of engineers now are engaged in the solution of one point or another of this problem.

"The very complexity of the problems connected with the most effective distribution of heat and power service at least cost, at this time of so many revolutionary ideas and

APPLETON MEN HONORED AT MINISTERIAL MEETING

Ripon — (AP) — The Rev. Phillip Schneider, Appleton, was elected president of the Conference Mission society of the annual conference of Evangelical church of Wisconsin, here Wednesday at the opening session of the seventy-third convention. Other newly elected officers are: Vice President, the Rev. J. F. Niensted, Appleton; Secretary, the Rev. C. F. Rabehl, Milwaukee; treasurer, the Rev. H. J. Drogkamp, Milwaukee.

The society voted $28,000 for ministerial aid. There are 110 ministerial and 40 lay delegates attending.

The conference asked the Rev. A. A. Krug of the Calvary Evangelical church, Milwaukee, to serve as assistant treasurer of the North Central college, Naperville, Ill.

of conflict of opinion, requires a series of survey studies of great breadth, very much more than it does increase intensity of effort at any one point," said Dr. Lucke.

"Considered in its broadest possible aspect, the national problem of heat and power supplies is that of discovering the cheapest way of bringing primary energy from its source to the point of use in acceptably suitable form. There are three such forms.

"A. Heat, to be utilized as heat.

"B. Electricity, to be utilized as electricity.

"C. Power, in the form of motion against resistance.

"The common sources of primary energy are: coal, oil and gas in the earth, and water at an elevation, to get a correct picture of the whole process, the energy costs in cents per million b. t. u. must be evaluated and periodically checked from source to point of consumption, and at every point between where there is transportation, transmission or transformation."

Thousands of engineers are now compiling this necessary data which cannot do other than revolutionize production.

PUZZLE IS SOLVED, MUSKRAT RELEASED ON BANKS OF RIVER

After a thrilling and exciting fight the muskrat which found its way into the arcaway of a basement window at Appleton postoffice Tuesday night, was captured and taken to the river where it was released. Gordon Schultz and Emory Rusch were the heroes of the short but adventurous encounter.

The plan to release the muskrat in its native haunts was adopted after all other schemes advanced by the postmen had failed. How the animal got into the arcaway is still a mystery, but several of the postal clerks, who, "mature sleuthing instincts, are attempting to unravel the puzzle.

Major Hoople Goes Abroad

Here's good news for Appleton Post-Crescent comic fans. The celebrated Major Amos Hoople is going to visit London, Paris and way points. Not just in his mind, but in reality. Here are Gene Ahern, NEA Service artist and confidant of the Major, and Mrs. Ahern, photographed in New York before they sailed on the Ile de France. Hoople is shown in the inset as he jauntily mounted the gangplank to accompany them.

SENIORS REHEARSE FOR CLASS PLAY

Difficult Production Will Be Offered at Chapel on May 27

The play "Come Out Of The Kitchen," a three act comedy by A. L. Thomas, which will be presented Monday evening, May 27, at Lawrence Memorial chapel by the senior class of Appleton high school is being rehearsed daily. The play will be the opening event of the commencement week activities.

The comedy, which was originally given in the George M. Cohen theatre, New York, with Ruth Chatterton in the lead, is one seldom given by high school students, although it has been for several years a very popular college production. It is being given by special permission received from Samuel French and Co., New York publishers.

Eleven members which were chosen from about forty-five contestants make up the cast which has been rehearsing for about two weeks. Work is now beginning on the third act. Miss Ruth McKenna, dramatic coach at the high school, is in charge of the production.

The business staff consists of Chester Davis, financial manager, Robert Elias, business manager, Charles Brinkley, advertising manager, Ray Koepfle, stage manager, and Beverly Breinig and Ruth Cohen, property managers.

Tickets for the play went on sale Wednesday. A ticket selling race is being carried on by teams captained by Annette Heller, Gertrude Roth and Virginia Ritten.

An appeal was made Thursday by W. H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster, to Appleton air mail patrons not to neglect to put their return addresses in the upper left hand corner of the face of letters or articles sent by air. Mr. Zuehlke pointed out that the department was experiencing considerable trouble because patrons were forgetting this important regulation and he urged that more attention be given the matter by Appleton citizens.

LITTLE CHUTE BAND AND PRESIDENT ARE ON AIR FROM WTMJ

"Casey" and Musicians Tell Radio Audience About Their Village

"Casey" Jansen, president of the village of Little Chute and the Little Chute band, directed by Edward F. Mumma, were on the air from Station WTMJ at Milwaukee from 9 to 10 o'clock Wednesday night telling the world about Little Chute.

The band told its story in music while Casey gave an address in which he outlined the historical facts surrounding the founding of the village and told of advantages to persons and factories who are seeking a new and better place to locate.

Miss Florence Roate, soprano, assisted the band in its concert, with two solos, "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling" and "Sunshine of Your Smile." R. H. Peeter's baritone horn solo, "Air Vane" was one of the hits of the program.

Little Chute's presentation was the nineteenth of a series of community programs being staged weekly from the Milwaukee station. A large silver loving cup is awarded to the city which receives the largest number of votes from radio fans. Votes are cast by letter, postcard or telephone.

Before the band left the broadcasting station Wednesday night it had received more than 15 telegrams from persons outside Little Chute. The first was from County Judge Fred V. Leinemann and the second was from Supervisor John Niesen of Kaukauna. Others were from Milwaukee, Manitowish, Sheboygan and several other cities.

The trip to Milwaukee was made in a bus chartered especially for the occasion.

The band and the Little Chute village officials who made the trip were the guests of the Shorewood Cooperative association at a dinner at the Shorewood high school before the broadcast.

Several officers of the Shorewood group gave short talks in which they praised the village of Little Chute for the cooperative spirit which it displayed in sponsoring so fine a band.

Casey responded with a short thanks in behalf of Little Chute. He then gave an address in which he outlined the historical facts surrounding the founding of the village and told of advantages to persons and factories who are seeking a new and better place to locate.

Before the dinner the band was taken for a tour of inspection through the Shorewood school. During the dinner Miss Roate sang a vocal solo and after the dinner the band played several numbers to a large audience of Shorewood residents in the high school gymnasium.

POISONED FLOUR SENDS EIGHT PERSONS TO BED

Chicago—Eight persons who partook of a birthday cake at a celebration last night were made seriously ill, though probably not fatally, by poison mixed with flour used in baking the cake.

Health authorities discovered nearly a cupful of deadly poison mixed with the flour.

Two holes, covered with labels, were found in the flour package. Police believed the holes were gnawed by mice and that a thrifty clerk where the flour had been purchased had scooped up the poison, sprinkled it around to kill rodents, with the spilled flour and poured it into the package, closing the holes. Authorities said, however, they would investigate whether the poison had been mixed in the flour deliberately.

Frank J. Ruehlman, host at the party and one of those stricken, declared he knew no motive why a deliberate attempt would be made to poison him or his family.

Gus Sell, county agricultural agent, will have charge of the meeting. Tentative enrollment includes students from four schools and it is expected that several more will be represented. Formation of this club is being made through efforts of the officers of the Bank of Kaukauna to lend assistance to a club which would be organized in the vicinity of Kaukauna. The bank offers its rooms for a meeting place, and will make loans to members of clubs so that they may purchase calves. The bank also will furnish supervision for the club. In fall the bank will sponsor a calf show at which prizes will be awarded to winners.

Prof. Marshall C. Graff of the University of Wisconsin extension division will have charge of the third annual contest day for Wood-co rural school children at Wisconsin Rapids, Saturday. ## RURAL GRADUATES WILL GO TO STATE CAPITOL ON JUNE 6

Expect 1,500 Students, Parents and Teachers to Make Trip

The date for the Outagamie-co. rural school graduates special commencement trip to the state capitol at Madison has been set ahead from June 10 to June 6 because of inability of Governor Walter J. Kohler to deliver the commencement address on the previous date, according to A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools.

Plans are practically complete for the second annual trip to Madison. About 1,500 graduates, parents and teachers are expected to embark on the special Chicago and Northwestern train which will leave Appleton at 7:30 Thursday morning, June 6. The train is scheduled to arrive in Madison at 11 o'clock when the group will go to the park where a basket lunch will be eaten and the zoo will be visited.

After lunch there will be a sight seeing trip across the university campus and several short addresses by members of the university faculty.

The governor will deliver the commencement address in Bascomb hall and the diplomas will be distributed. Before hearing the governor the entire group will be taken through the capitol on an inspection trip.

After the exercises the crowd will return to the train which will leave Madison at 4:40. The evening meal will be eaten on the train and the crowd will return to Appleton about 8 o'clock.

This year there are several other counties planning to take their rural school graduates to Madison for commencement exercises, according to Mr. Meating, who devised the novel graduation program last year. About 1,400 persons made the trip last year.

A group from Winnebago-co. is making the trip to Madison on June 1 and another group from Brown-co. will go on June 2. Mr. Meating said in addition several other counties are making plans for similar trips.

GOITRE

A new treatment for goitre has been developed by the V. T. S. Laboratories, 1251 Sanborn Bldg., Battle Creek, Michigan, which many believe will prove to be the long sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease. Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller, and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks. It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitres. The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home.

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes, Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre, issued by the Laboratories, fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed free to any interested sufferer. adv.

A tire that is sold on SATISFACTION —not on "discounts"

Any tire that has been proved so thoroughly... any tire that enjoys this car owner confidence — must be sold on SATISFACTION. It cannot be sold on "discounts". Goodyears do not discount quality — therefore they cannot discount prices. Buy a tire that is KNOWN to give every nickel's worth in SATISFACTION.

Lawrence Entertains H. S. Track Squads Here Saturday

APPLETON IS ONLY VALLEY SCHOOL IN 5TH ANNUAL MEET

Class B Schools Compete in Morning, Class A in Afternoon

HIGH school track teams and students from all over the state will flock into Appleton late Friday afternoon and early Saturday to take part in the fifth annual Lawrence college track meet which will be run Saturday under the direction of Coach Clarence H. Rasmussen.

Entries have been received from 37 Wisconsin high schools, 29 in class B, schools with an enrollment of less than 700, and in class A, schools with an enrollment of 700 or more.

Among the latter schools, Appleton high school is the only valley entry. Wausau and six schools from Milwaukee make up the remainder of the group.

Just why Fox river valley conference schools do not enter the meet in greater numbers is a question. Several years ago Lawrence started a meet in which only valley schools participated. Then it was made a state meet and the valley schools dropped out for some reason or other. So far they have failed to show any interest in the event and several have arranged meets with other schools for the day. The story that looks out around the conference is the valley schools are carrying a peeve because Lawrence ran their meet in the morning a few years ago and as a result they feel "slighted."

Milwaukee schools are gunning for the Class A honors again this year but 11th man Coach Joseph Shields of Appleton, is looking over the lineup to see if he can't squeeze his outfit into a first place.

The fact that Wausau is entered in the Class A events leads Shields to believe he or Cabby Evers can take the honors away from the down state schools this year. By splitting up the points in eight different ways, most anything is possible when it comes to awarding the title.

Last season the Class A meet was won by Bay View high school team, East side high of Milwaukee was second and Appleton third. Washington, Tech and West all finished in the order named.

Running the Class B meet will be the biggest job for Razz and his assistants. Half a dozen heats in most every event will have to be run while the youngsters taking part in some of the field events probably will be at it all morning. Another big problem is the relay. Fifteen schools have entered teams in the relays.

The visiting track squads will be entertained at various fraternity houses at noon while a dinner at which more than 200 are expected to take part in will be held in the evening.

The meet will begin at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, with George Downer of Milwaukee as referee.

MAY CREATE SEVEN NEW BOXING TITLES

Move Expected to Stir Up Interest Among Fight Fans

Chicago—(AP)—A proposal to create seven additional boxing championships will be submitted by President Paul Prehn to the National Boxing association at its September meeting.

The great problem confronting boxing promoters is that of acquiring champions of attractions. Prehn explained, "and official champions in each class would double the attractions now offered. This would bring more boxers into prominence, too, and give the unfortunate performer who is between the classes a chance."

Should the plan be adopted, Prehn said, the seven new champions would be held strictly to the six month ruling, which requires a champion to defend his title twice a year, provided there is a logical contender and a suitable purse.

First Match Will Bring Together Van Ryn and Crocker

Montreal—(AP)—With John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., showing the way, the youthful and somewhat experimental Davis cup team of the United States meets the Canadian team Thursday in the opening of the American zone Davis cup play. Van Ryn, who gave up his chance for international honors last year to complete his college course, meets Willard Crocker of Montreal in the first singles match Thursday afternoon.

The second match brings together the No. 1 players of the two teams. John Hennessey of Indianapolis and Dr. Jack Wright of Montreal. The second set of singles matches, which will be played Saturday, pitted Van Ryn against Wright again, Hennessey against Crocker. The lineups for Friday's doubles are uncertain.

Leaders In Majors Are All Heavy Hitting Clubs

BY JOHN R. FOSTER
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Sheer batting may not win this year's major championships but it will have more of an effect upon them than usual if the races continue to move to their present tempo.

The Chicago Nationals have clubbed their way to the front in the National league. There have been other winning qualities in connection with their work but analyze their games closely and it will be found that they have made their bats talk for runs on a large scale when they have been hitting in unison.

There was some tendency to discredit the batting power of the Cubs before the season began. National league managers held it too cheaply and some who did not like Hornsby held him too cheaply.

Yet the team and the second baseman are smashing the foundations out from under pitchers and by batting power more than by usually expert fielding, and so, have blasted away through the field to reach the top for the moment. They may be first some days and they may be second some days but unless they lose their baseball legs they will not be dawdling lower than second most of the time.

The most unusual sight in the National league is to observe the Pittsburghs lagging in last place as batters. They led the league in 1928. The Cubs couldn't hit with them. The Pirates are tail-enders now. No wonder they have to battle their way with greater demands upon them than they had last season. There is an instance of lack of batting holding a fair pitching staff down. The Cubs are making their pitchers successful because they blaze a path to victory for them.

The most successful team with success at the start of the season. Pitching was bad and batting not much. When the team started west it also started on one of those monotonous batting streaks for which its players have been famous. Pitchers were slammed right and left.

It is batting that is helping the Phillies as best they are able to maintain their own, as they are second in the National league batting. They are at the top of the second division and ahead of Brooklyn, Cincinnati and New York because they can hit with scarcely any pitching to help them. One of these days it is probable that the Giants will be ahead of them, if the Giants can get their bats working when runs are needed, but Boston will gravitate farther and farther as the season goes on.

WALTER HAGEN AND PRINCE OF WALES COMPETE IN GOLF

London—(AP)—The prospect of a match between the Prince of Wales and Walter Hagen stirred up lively interest among British golfers Thursday and achieved first page prominence in the morning newspapers. The Prince's handicap is generally understood to be sixteen but it is said that his play has shown great improvement lately under the coaching of James Braid and that his handicap has been lowered somewhat as a result.

There is much speculation among golfers concerning what handicap Hagen will concede, one suggestion being that he may offer a stroke a hole.

The Mail Thursday says it has learned that the match is almost certain to be a foursome in which the Prince will have a scratch golfer as his partner.

MAN O' WAR TO HAVE FIVE SONS IN DERBY

Louisville, Ky.—Five sons of the great Man o' War are entries in the Kentucky Derby which is to be run over the Churchill Downs course on May 18. They are Clyde Van Dusen, Shipmaster, Battleship Gray, Annapolis and War Time.

Clyde Van Dusen, owned by H. P. Gardner of New York, is one of the heavily backed favorites and it may be that he will do something that his illustrious sire never accomplished. He may win the greatest classic of the American turf. Man o' War was not able to win the Derby because he was not started when he was eligible.

The records of the four other Man o' War colts are not impressive and it is unlikely that they will be started.

Valley League Gossip

Rachals, Green Bay's lanky right-hander, will probably be out of the game for a couple of months. An old arm injury came back to him on the second ball he pitched against the Pals and he couldn't raise his wing shoulder high. His loss will handicap the Bays in the flag hunt.

John Lawe, as usual, pitched the first ball at the opener in Kaukauna. He has been doing this for years and he claims his contract still has ten years to run. Mr. Lawe has claim to being the oldest fan in the Valley yet he follows the Kavs around like a high school youngster.

What a difference a year makes. This time last season, Nee-Menasha was safely entrenched at the bottom of the heap but the 1929 team has all the earmarks of a championship squad. Muench and Leopold have the players hustling in a way that will produce many diamond victories.

Casey Jansen, the mayor of Little Chute, is still calling 'em in the Valley loop. It seems as if every fan and they all take special delight in riding him. However, the veteran arbitrator seems to enjoy it even if some of the "razzberries" are sizing.

Les Smith and his Kaukauna tribe have their batting togs on against Fond du Lac and one Mr. Latina was chased off the mind about mid way in the fracas. Lemke then took up the mound duties for the Cardinals and escaped with his shirt Hammond, the Kavs' slabster, had a dozen strike-outs.

Joe Schuette saved the Bays from getting a terrible wallop at the

REARRANGE SEAT PLAN FOR U. OF W. FOOTBALL GAMES

Expect to Give Better Seats to Alumni and Students by Change

MADISON—Football ticket regulation, adopted by the athletic council of the University of Wisconsin for the 1929 season, abolish season books for alumni and general public and rearrange in several respects the seating allotment at Camp Randall stadium.

The general admission price for the opening double header with South State and Ripon has been set at $1. Admission to the Colgate game will be $2. The usual fee of $3 will hold for all Western conference contests, Iowa, Purdue and Northwestern.

In the re-location of stadium sections for the student body, alumni and general public, the first two groups have been favored. Adherents of the visiting team will continue to occupy a position in the east stands, starting at the 50 yard line and running south, in accordance with the Big Ten ruling. This year the alumni will be in the east stands immediately north of opponent's rosters.

This arrangement, for the grades and ex-students gives them a solid section starting at mid-field. Alumni association members will again receive a preference in the distribution of tickets in this section. The student body will be seated in the west stands, beginning at the 50 yard line and extending north. No special groups will be assigned to this part of the stadium, all accommodations from the ground to the top row being reserved for the students.

A sub-section has been established for a male cheering section, however, which provides a preference for all men holding season books over other students. One row will also be reserved for wearers of the "W" enrolled in the university. The usual "W" section for non-student letter-men will extend south from the 50 yard line in the form of a ribbon. The new ribbon idea will also hold in the case of faculty and university employees holding coupon books, and the general public, all being seated in the east stands, south of the 50 yard line. The public will also receive all of sections A and B.

Tickets in the southeast end of the "house-shoes," not demanded by the visiting school, will be apportioned in ribbons to alumni, public and students purchasing one additional ticket. The action of the athletic council in adopting these changes will provide more choice seats for students and alumni.

Giants Mauled Again; Now Down With Robins

Heilmann K. O.ed by Coch-rane When Sliding Home With Winning Run

BY WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

JOHN MCGRAW didn't know what a break he was getting when the Giants put him to bed. After ten pleasantly idle afternoons, he discovered Wednesday that he got well too soon.

Back at the Polo Grounds, he saw the Reds skip away with the remains of a two-game series by a score of 12 to 3.

Red Lucas had all to do with the size of the New York score, which could have been even smaller had the occasion demanded, but the top-heavy total for the Cincinnati expedition was the handiwork of a pair of green campaigners. Joseph Stripp, recently from Columbus, outraged Frederick Fitzsimmons with two home runs while Evar Swanson from the Pacific slope contended himself with one.

Fitzsimmons left the proceedings flat at the end of the eighth and the Reds welcomed Joe Genewich with a real merry-go-round in the ninth. Five solid hits produced four decorative runs, removing any slight doubt remaining regarding the outcome. This defeat shoved the Giants down to a point from which General McGraw could shake hands with any "C" without Robinson's cave dwellers without news from his chair.

The victory of the Reds gave the Rhineland invaders two straight at the Polo Grounds and left the Giants nursing just three small victories and seven bumps on the jaw for their stand at home against the west. One tie also entered into the record.

GRIMES BEATS ROBINS
With Darryl Vance III, Glenn Wright on his way home and Burleigh Grimes in the box for Pittsburgh, the Robins found a perfect setting for their eighth straight defeat. Babe Herman's home off Grimes in the fifth with two Robins on base tied the score at 4 to 4, but the Pirates soon regained command to win eventually by 9 to 4.

While all of this brawling was going on about the Metropolis, the Cubs were Tommyhawking the Braves by a 7 to 4 at Boston and the Cards were punching the Phils by a 4 to 1. These two contending forces thus remained on even terms at the head of the National league parade.

TULANE STUDENT COPS COLLEGE NET CROWN

New Orleans—(AP)—Clifford Sutter is the new tennis champion in Southern conference collegiate circles. He defeated Maurice Bayon 3-6, 6-0, 2-6, 6-2, 6-1 here Wednesday to cap the singles crown. Both men are from Tulane.

Sutter and Bayon won the doubles championship of the tournament last week.

Dempsey's Prestige As Promoter Is Falling

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Jack Dempsey has had two big matches taken away from him and his worth as a big time promoter is none too valuable at this writing. Jack had his heart set on booking either Max Schmeling or Paolino Uzcudun. The idea of pitting them against each other was not Dempsey's plan. His idea was to match them against different opponents with the winners fighting each other so that the series would drag out the entire summer. Dempsey and Fugazy worked with might and main to secure the

Tommy Loughran-James J. Braddock contest only to have the Garden matchmaker steal it from under their eyes.

With these two big attractions out of reach Dempsey has little left but the smaller boys and judging from past experience little fellows will not fill the big ball parks.

Down at Miami Beach Dempsey gave out the information that he had booked the Sammy Mandell-Ray Miller fight. That went aglimmering when Miller was shipped by Jimmy McLarnin. Then a match between Mandell and Billy Wallace was contemplated. Billy dropped a decision to Louis Kid Kaplan and that match went by the boards.

Dempsey still has Young Stribling. Pa is willing to let his boy fight anyone but drawback here is that none of the big fellows seemed to want any part of Y. L.'s game.

There is hardly any likelihood of Mickey Walker fighting under the Dempsey-Fugazy banner. Jack Kearns manages Walker and he would not consider doing business with his former champion.

All in all it looks as if Jack Dempsey as a big time promoter is a bust. There is no end of money to the Fugazy-Cole bankroll and they are willing to put it on the line. Fight managers have not been too spry about falling into line and Jack Dempsey finds himself on the threshold of the open air season without a good card to offer the fans who patronize the popular priced shows at Ebbets field.

KRANHOLD WINNER OF H. S. PENTATHLON MEET

Harvey Kranhold won the pentathlon contest held for Appleton high school track men during the last week. The contest was run under the supervision of Coach Joseph R. Shields and is part of Coach Shields' intra mural program. Ray Crane finished second in the events, and Bobby Kunitz, third. Events in which the boys participated were the 100 yard dash, broad and high jump, shot put and the discus.

Points were awarded each contestant on the basis of his accomplishments rather than whether he finished first or second in the events. About 20 boys were entered in the meet.

HAGEN DEFEATED IN BRITISH MEET BY GEORGE DUNCAN

Diegel, Turnesa, Horton
Smith and Dudley Survive
Round

MORTOWN, Eng.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, American Ryder cup captain and four-times holder of the British open title, was beaten in the first round of the Yorkshire Evening News thousand guineas golf tournament by George Duncan, of Great Britain, Thursday.

Duncan, who headed the British Ryder cup team that conquered the American squad here a fortnight ago, downed Hagen one up. Duncan sank a 40 foot putt at the home hole to beat the American star for the second time. He defeated Hagen by an overwhelming score in the Ryder cup matches.

Jose Jurado, of Argentina, was beaten by W. T. Twine, Great Britain, three and two.

Duncan always has been a jinx for Hagen. The American star never has beaten him in match play.

Thursday the British open championship was never more than one down and finally beaten at the home hole only because Duncan's great 40-foot putt went down for an eagle three. Hagen's third shot lay at the lip of the cup.

The closing holes of the Hagen-Duncan match contained some dramatic moments, one down at the fifteenth, Hagen squared the match at the sixteenth when Duncan, with seeming carelessness, misses a 14-inch putt. Hagen barely missed winning the 17th but his short pitch from the side of the green stopped on the lip of the cup.

It looked like Hagen had an easy half at the home hole, his third again halting on the edge of the hole, but Duncan's long undulating roller went down for a great British victory.

Leo Diegel of New York defeated his fellow countryman, Al Watrous, one up.

Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., conquered T. Barber two up.

F. J. Dudley, Wilmington, Del., pro. defeated S. Sayner, Great Britain, three and two.

MILWAUKEE BREWS ARE MAULED, 15-1

Columbus Gives Blues
Tough Battle but Loses 6
- and 5

BY WILLIAM A. WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chicago—(AP)—The efforts of Columbus to finish somewhere above seventh place in the American association are making little progress. The Senators have occupied either seventh or eighth position for the last five seasons and now are nudging Louisville for the cellar berth.

Columbus gave Kansas City a tough battle Wednesday but could not overcome the efforts of Marion Thomas, southpaw relief hurler. Thomas replaced Fette with the score tied and won out in the Senator half of the ninth, and fanned the only man who faced him. In the Blues' part of the session he came to bat and tripled in the winning run of a 6 to 5 Kansas City triumph.

Toledo spent a large supply of baseballs in evening up the series with Milwaukee. The Mudhens lashed out 21 safeties for a 15 to 1 victory, manhandling four Brewer hurlers. Bud Parmelee, young Toledo right-hander, stopped Milwaukee with five hits.

Minneapolis lost ground by being idle while Kansas City won over Columbus. The Millers' engagement with Indianapolis was rained out, as was the Louisville-St. Paul contest.

Miss Collett played consistent golf to down Mrs. Watson. She started rather erratically and the first five holes found the match all square. Then the American champion found

herself and won three of the next four holes, the other being halved. Rounding the turn three up, Miss Collett carefully nursed this lead and although the Scottish woman played gallantly she could not overcome her American rival's advantage.

Doris Park sprang a sensational upset by eliminating Enid Wilson, 20-year-old English champion, at the nineteenth hole. Miss Park will clash with Miss Collett in the semi-finals, Thursday afternoon.

St. Andrews, Scot.—(AP)—Twenty-five hundred persons started out with Glenna Collett and Doris Park in their semi-final match of the British women's golf championship. Miss Parks' brassie was ten feet inside Miss Collett's iron to the first green. Glenna's down hill putt stopped 12 feet from the cup but she dropped the next one for a half in 45.

St. Andrews, Scotland—(AP)—Glenna Collett, American title-holder, advanced to the semi-final round of the British women's golf championship Thursday by defeating Mrs. J. B. Watson of Scotland, three and two. Joyce Wethered, crack British golfer, defeated Nolly Gourlay, seven and five.

Miss Collett played consistent golf to down Mrs. Watson. She started rather erratically and the first five holes found the match all square. Then the American champion found herself and won three of the next four holes, the other being halved. Rounding the turn three up, Miss Collett carefully nursed this lead and although the Scottish woman played gallantly she could not overcome her American rival's advantage.

White Sox "Bad Boy" Is In Trouble Again

CHICAGO—(AP)—Art Shires, the White Sox "bad boy" engaged in a fist fight with his boss, Manager Lena Blackburne, in the clubhouse after Wednesday's game and announced forthwith that he was leaving baseball "for good" and would reenter school to obtain his degree in law.

Blackburne, decorated with a discolored eye and a cut ear, took the altercation like the seasoned campaigner he is and announced:

"It was just one of those things that had to happen sooner or later."

The manager added that since Shires is under contract with the White Sox his further legal education will be delayed, at least temporarily.

"He is still the property of the club," Blackburne said, "and will remain so, but in what capacity, I don't know. If Shires gets on the right track he will be reinstated and given another chance to make the grade."

The fight climaxed several months of dispute between Blackburne and Shires. Blackburne had fined Shires $100 and indefinitely suspended him for "talking back" during batting practice.

The rupture between the two first occurred during spring training in Texas. Shires broke testing rules and was benched. Since then he has been bench warming while John Clancy played first base.

At batting practice Wednesday the trouble broke out anew when Blackburne ordered Shires to discard a crimson felt hat he was wearing and to quit burling the game.

Shires "talked back" and was immediately suspended and fined.

After the game, Shires entered the clubhouse and became engaged with Blackburne in another argument, which led to the fist fight. Several blows were struck.

Shires cleared out his locker and departed. Before he reached the gate of the park, he told a reporter that he was on his way, but didn't know where.

"Blowout" is accompanied by his manager, Moore X. Pence, and his trainer, Les Milage.

RICH GIRL-POOR GIRL

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXXII

"Is that so?" Huck sneered, his real self cracking through his veneer. "Get this. I'll make her whine just as you have. Taming her will be"

He did not finish the sentence. Like springs uncoiling, Harold's hands let go of the dress and doubled into shaking knots. He sprang at Huck in a fury of rage.

Huck's change from a stance of ease to a defensive position was lightning quick. He met Harold's attack with a stiff uppercut that sent the boy reeling backward, staggering to keep his feet.

"You're through, I tell you," Harold shrieked at him sobbingly when he found his voice and came on again. "You're through"

Huck stood off and stopped him with well-aimed but not crushing blows. He was cursing himself for having overplayed his hand.

"You fool," he gritted, "do you want to go to prison?"

Harold screamed back at him "I'll go anywhere before I'll let you get your hands on Pamela! She's my sister! You'll never get her! I'll tell her what a crook you are! I'll tell Armistage who framed him!"

His words were now coming in broken gasps as he tore in, trying to reach Huck with one of his powerless blows.

"You're through," he repeated again as Huck held him off.

"No more of your crooked gambling in this hotel!" he exulted, losing his head entirely with his sense of escape from mental degradation.

Huck swore under his breath. He'd have to settle the kid once and for all now, he told himself. He realized that Harold was beyond fearing him any longer. His power over the boy was at an end. Huck himself was now the one who feared. He had no armor to withstand the onslaught of a turning worm. He saw nothing to serve his purpose but complete annihilation of the boy he had driven too far.

Stepping in quickly and unexpectedly, he grappled with Harold and appeared to be trying to subdue him by wrestling. It really he was maneuvering his intended victim closer to the open window from which there was a sheer drop of many stories to the roof of the building below.

Harold struggled to plant a blow on Huck's chin but the man's superior strength kept his arms pinned close to his sides. Unwittingly Harold allowed himself to be brought to within a foot of the window sill before a premonition of Huck's deadly intention came to him.

As Harold opened his mouth to yell for help Huck viciously clapped a hand to his lips. The boy fought desperately but ineffectively. It was too late to save himself now.

The rest of Huck Connor's murderous act was quick! carried out. Holding and silencing Harold with one hand, Huck dealt him a stunning blow with the other.

There was not even a cry as the hurting body left the window and crashed through space to death below.

Then, almost instantly, Huck set himself to follow the dictates of his rapidly working brain.

He flicked out his handkerchief and ran it over the woodwork of the window to remove any fingerprints he may have left on it. A quick survey of the room assured him that little was amiss. A chair overturned. He righted it in one swift movement.

His glance fell upon the table that held the ash tray with the butt of the cigaret he had smoked. Huck was too wise to smoke a special brand by which he could be traced, but he knew that Harold did.

Quickly he spread his handkerchief on the table, took up the tray with a corner of it and emptied the contents on the linen. He ran his coat sleeve over the table, and then, satisfied that he had destroyed all clues, turned to leave the room.

At the door he stood listening for a few seconds while he held it slightly ajar and wiped off his fingerprints. Hearing nothing, he opened it wider and peered into the hall. There was no one in sight.

Then, as silently and smoothly as a shadow, Huck stepped out and made his way to his own rooms.

Harold's body was discovered soon afterward.

The house physician arrived on the scene shortly and pronounced the boy dead.

It was dark, a glorious sapphire darkness, before the medical examiner gave permission for the body to be moved. It was taken to a funeral director's establishment and Pamela was not allowed to view it.

Up in Harold's room the hotel detective and the police had been making their investigations. Nothing aroused their suspicions that it was more than a suicide case or an accident until they came to their scrutiny of the window.

Rather perfunctorily they went over the floor, the baseboard, the window sill and the frames. Then suddenly, when they had finished inspecting the woodwork their superficial air vanished. They looked at each other gravely - there were three of them - and expressed a single opinion in a single word.

"Queer"

"How could Harold have thrown himself or fallen from the window without leaving a finger mark there? In falling he would have clutched at something. The curtains had he caught them, would have been torn. And had his fingers slipped from the woodwork the marks would remain."

"That just about settles the accident theory," the house detective said.

Their task became grim from that moment. The room was searched again but nothing to support their theory was found except the fact that in clinging over the window a second time they could see that the woodwork had been recently wiped. The second window in the room, which was closed, showed a slight accumulation of coal dust on the sill.

It was obvious that an open window would have collected a greater amount of dust had it not been removed. And the removal was too thorough to have been done by the dead boy's clothing as he was sped to his death.

When the report was filed it established a theory of the case that was in direct disagreement with the popular belief that Harold Judson had died a suicide's death or been the victim of a fatal accident.

But the police preferred to keep their theory to themselves. They did not want to put the murderer, if such there really was in the case, on guard.

A man was sent in haste to the funeral director's establishment and arrived before Harold's clothing had been removed. A minute inspection of his belongings was made and all metal or hard objects taken for possible fingerprint clues.

Shortly thereafter all doubt that Harold had met a violent death at the hands of an assassin vanished from the minds of those who learned that on the boy's silver belt buckle was a clear thumbprint that did not belong to the belt's dead owner.

Business Men Eat Too Much, Society Warns

Madison—Most business men eat too much. They eat too much meat; they use too much seasoning on their food and they eat their meals in such a hurry that often the food becomes a menace to future health. The educational committee of the Wisconsin State Medical Society in a health bulletin says that most business men would be better off physically if they reduced their meat diet one-half.
"The quantity of food eaten is far more important than the quality, though both should be considered," says the report. "Even an ordinary sensible meal causes a temporary rise of blood pressure, which is a normal reaction and not injurious; but when a meal is so large as to over-distend the stomach, to drag upon the abdominal blood vessels, to cause pressure upward against the diaphragm, to limit the excursion of the latter and so to interfere with breathing, it may be positively harmful; for the prolongation of digestion, the mechanical embarrassment of heart and the interference with breathing all throw strain upon the circulatory system. If such strain be repeated day after day, it is inevitable that sooner or later permanent harm will be done to the heart and the blood vessels."
"Big meals are apt, too, to be rich meals, inclusive of a heavy meat course and of many condiments. Now it happens that foods that are highly seasoned with salt, pepper and mustard not only tempt to over-indulgence at the table but are in themselves stimulating to the circulation and conducive to a rise in blood pressure. The so-called 'extractions' or meat—'the substances in meat that are soluble in boiling water and that form the basis of meat broths'—are also stimulating. So is coffee, which usually tops on the large meal; and so is the nicotine of the after-dinner cigar. Habitually heavy meals, whether they be served at noon or in the evening, are among the more important of the factors that are concerned in the origin of the arterial high blood pressure of later life. Particularly obnoxious is the eating of two or three heavy meals per day by persons whose habits are sedentary, and whose lives are led indoors."
"The majority of Americans eat too much meat for there are but relatively few who are of normal weight or heavier who would not be better off physically if they reduced their meat-intake to a half or even to a third of the amount they have been accustomed to eat. Each person should make sure, too, that his diet is well-balanced; the ration should contain the proper proportions of proteins (meat, chicken, fish or eggs), carbohydrates (cereals, sweets, fats, butter, bacon), vitamins (fresh fruits, leafy green vegetables, milk, water and mineral salts. Each person should ascertain from one of the standard tables what the average weight is for one of his height. If his weight be much above this, or much below this, he should, under the guidance of his family physician, so modify his diet and his habits that his weight will approach the normal."

HARMONY NEEDED IN DEVELOPMENT OF TELEVISION

Equipment Must Be Standardized, Radio Engineers Point Out

Copyright, 1929, by Cons. Press
Washington — Radio engineers are agreed that the orderly and rapid development of television broadcasting hinges on a definite standardization of the whole manufacturing art, so that both the sending and receiving apparatus will be in harmony. They deplore present conditions under which specific makes of televisions are adopted only for the reception of particular types of transmitters and useless for all others.

This was the view manifest by the visual broadcasting pioneers before the institute of radio engineers, in radio, as Alfred N. Goldsmith, vice-president of the Radio Corporation of America, J. W. Horton, of the General Radio company, R. H. Ranger, R. C. A., C. Francis Jenkins of Washington and Julius Weinberger, R. C. A., propounded to the 400 engineers present their opinions as to how the arrival of practical television can be hastened.

"It is clear," said Dr. Goldsmith in introducing the symposium on photographic and television, "that more definite and elaborate standardization will be required in the television broadcasting field than in the telephone broadcasting field. In order effectively and conveniently to receive a television transmission, the receiver must have certain constants and characteristics determined by the transmitter."

NEED STANDARDIZATION
It must be arranged to handle the same number of horizontal and vertical pictures per second, must be arranged for the same scanning method, must have the same synchronizing means, and presumably must be adapted to receive the transmitted arrangements of television and synchronizing signals in one or more frequency bands.

Television, he continued, is by far the most difficult method of radio transmission so far accomplished. The technical difficulties which have contributed to the "leisurely progress of commercial television as compared to telephone broadcasting have promoted caution on the part of responsible engineers interested in television service to the public," he added.

Commercial television was defined as something having "genuine entertainment and educational value," by Mr. Weinberger, who submitted a paper along with Dr. Theodore A. Smith and George Rodwin, of R. C. A., offering a paper containing a discussion of standards for visual broadcasting with the hope that it would form a basis of study for engineers engaged in television development. These scientists stated that before television can become a national service it will be necessary to

Enters High School Band Tournament

Appleton high school band will enter the state high school band tournament at Stevens Point on May 16, 17 and 18. Approximately 100 bands are expected to compete for state honors in the four classes, A, B, C, and D. Last year the Appleton high school group was entered in Class C, and won first place in that division.

Mr. Horton, discussing the electrical transmission of pictures and images, declared that the scientific problems of picture transmission, both by photoradio, or the transmission of still pictures by radio, and television, were solved years ago, but the solution of the economic problems is just beginning to appear possible.

SEES SIMPLIFICATION
"It is to be expected," said he that future development of this art will result in every considerable simplification in the means of satisfying operating requirements. There the demands made on the system are more severe than those now encountered with other types of information. We may have every confidence that ways will be found to meet them."

The more technical phases of television, radiovision and radiomovies transmission were discussed by Mr. Jenkins, one of the real pioneers in the art. The scanning disc, the very heart of the television apparatus, was analyzed by the inventor. Originally the "disc" type scanner was used and now Mr. Jenkins has turned to the "drum" type, which he invented.

"While the drum type scanner is a great advance over the disc scanner, both are believed to be inherently wrong in principle," said he. "In current-day efficiency the disc is very faulty, being less than one-fifty-thousandth of one percent. The substitution of persistence of elementary area for persistence of vision is believed to promise far greater possibilities in development.
